Election Talk Not On Agenda Military Council In Viet Is Firm

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh failed today to convince fellow members of the ruling revolutionary military council that they should quit politics to prevent new riots.

"We are not even close to a decision," said Lt. Gen. Tran Thi'ch Khiem, one of the most powerful officers on the 60-man junta.

Fresh bloodshed in the north attended deepening of the political crisis that led Khanh to resign Tuesday as president in a controversial constitution and pledge a new deal for this Communist-menaced republic.

A source close to the junta said the question of electing a new national leader — part of an arrangement with the leaders of student and Buddhist demonstrators — was not even discussed.

Serious Situation

Before the five-hour meeting broke up, student leaders threatened new mass demonstrations unless the military men returned to fighting the war, opening the government to civilians. Khanh called the situation serious.

Buddhist rioters thronged in and around Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, for the third straight day and South Vietnamese troops intervened for the first time to check their antigovernment, anti-Catholic and anti-American demonstrations.

Fire Over Crowds

The troops fired over the heads of the crowds. The toll of the riots rose to 11 dead and 61 wounded. Two of the dead were Vietnamese soldiers. Da Nang police arrested 40 of the rioters for looting. Catholic-owned shops were sacked and burned. Demonstrations also flared again in Hue, 30 miles north of Da Nang and 40 miles south of Communist North Viet Nam's frontier. Students commandeered the Hue radio station. Police and local officials joined 4,000 demonstrators in a street parade.

Pan Am Line Force Back, Extras Fly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Transport workers returned today to their jobs at Pan American Airways following a strike-ending agreement on a new labor contract which one union official called the best ever negotiated in the industry.

The strike of AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union members lasted less than 24 hours but crippled the airline's operations to foreign points from New York, Miami, Washington, Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Los Angeles and Houston, Tex.

Pan American operates no domestic flights.

Extra Planes Fly

The air line recalled all its employees to duty shortly after the agreement was reached. Board Chairman Juan Trippe said extra planes will be operated in transatlantic service to accommodate any backlog of traffic.

Details of the new contract covering 12,000 union members — maintenance and ground service personnel and flight attendants — were not disclosed pending ratification by rank and file union members.

This is expected to be completed by the middle of next week, the union said.

9,000 Workers Out

About 9,000 workers were involved in the strike over wages, working conditions and fringe benefits.

James J. Horst, international vice president and director of the union's Air Transport Division, called the contract the best ever negotiated in the industry.

The walkout began about 2 a.m. Tuesday after negotiations between union and management reached a stalemate.

The union had sought wage increases of 15 per cent, improved working conditions and fringe benefits including a reduction in the 40-hour work week to 37½ hours and more liberal insurance and pension provisions.

Present wages average $3.21 an hour for mechanics, $2.55 for ground service personnel, $2.83 for port stewards, and $4.75 monthly for flight stewards, stewardesses and pursers.

Gov. Rockefeller, who says he will campaign hard for Keating, set the tone of his attack last week when he said nomination of Kennedy would be a disaster for the people of New York.

Florida Is In Path of Hurricane

Islands Hit Hard By Cleo, 64 Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Cleo, with at least 51 dead in her wake, thrashed slowly and erratically today across central Cuba on a course threatening the Florida Keys.

The Miami Weather Bureau predicted that minor squalls would reach the Keys during the afternoon and it expected to hoist gale warnings tonight.

Coming off the north coast of Cuba, over the warm waters of the Florida Strait, the hurricane could quickly regain some of its lost power. Its winds, which hit 140 miles an hour over Haiti, dropped to 75 over Cuba.

Reports from Cuba on the storm's position were not complete.

Position Estimated

The Weather Bureau estimated that the storm was centered at 8 a.m. (EST) near latitude 22.3 north, longitude 79.6 west. This is 210 miles southeast of Key West and 250 miles south-southeast of Miami.

The hurricane, which killed at least 14 on the island of Guadeloupe and an estimated 50 in the mountains of Haiti, moved into Cuba Tuesday afternoon.

Residents of south Florida were warned to keep in touch with advisories and be ready to take quick safety measures.

Hospital Destroyed

A businessman in Les Cayes on Haiti's southern peninsula radioed to Port au Prince that a hospital had been destroyed by the storm and 50 bodies found. Les Cayes was still rebuilding from the effects of Hurricane Flora which devastated the island and took thousands of lives.

More than 10,000 persons were evacuated from exposed areas on Cuba's southwestern coast. There were no reports of casualties.

Cuban military short wave frequencies were kept busy throughout the night relaying hurricane damage reports to Havana.

One station, monitored by The Associated Press in Miami, reported that a number of sugar mills in Oriente Province were heavily damaged by the storm.

Campaign Grounds: He Knows Problems

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Democrat Robert F. Kennedy has opened his campaign to become a senator from New York, saying he is equipped "to understand New York's problems and to do something about them."

Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating reacted to Kennedy's formal announcement of his candidacy Tuesday by offering the attorney general maps and guides to the state "which any sojourner would find helpful."

Kennedy said President Johnson would campaign for him.

Accompanied by his wife and two dogs, Kennedy read his statement of candidacy in front of Gracie Mansion, Mayor Robert F. Wagner's official residence, while Wagner looked on approvingly.

Names Connections

"I recognize," Kennedy said, "that some voters have misgivings about considering a man for high office who has left the state and who has only recently returned."

He said his parents have maintained a home in New York since 1926, that he attended New York schools for six years, and that he has again established residence in the state.

"But I do not base my candidacy on these connections," he said.

Cites Experience

"I base it on the conviction that my experience and my record equip me to understand New York's problems and to do something about them. I base it on the fact that the greatest state in the Union must play a leading role at the federal level in solving these problems.

"And I wish to play a part in that effort."

Kennedy votes in Massachusetts and has been living in Virginia, near Washington, D.C. Newsmen asked Kennedy if President Johnson will campaign for him and he replied, "yes."

Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, who is expecting their ninth child, flew to Atlantic City to attend a reception for New York delegates to the Democratic National Convention, given by Mayor Wagner. Kennedy did not attend the convention.

Crowded at Reception

Hundreds of persons mobbed the Kennedys on their arrival, and crowded around them at the reception.

Kennedy generally is conceded the Democratic nomination at a state convention next Tuesday. He says he will resign as attorney general when he is nominated.

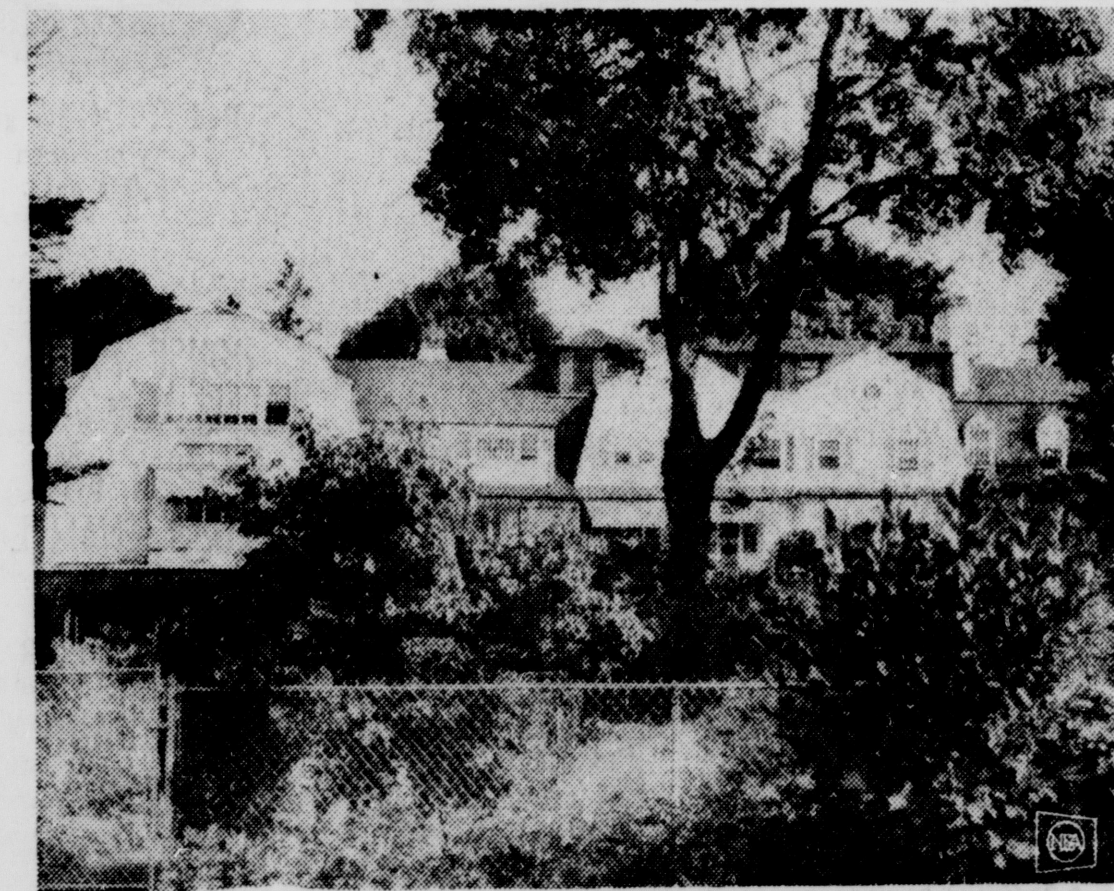

But Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam still plans a floor fight.

George Palmer of Schenectady, Stratton's manager, said Kennedy's nomination will be fought "before the state committee, at the state convention, before the secretary of state and in the courts."

In Albany, Fred A. Young, Republican state chairman, said he would recommend a state law barring persons who can't vote in New York from running for public office. A year's residence is required for voting.

CORE Is To Protest At Parley

Will Ask Seats For Freedom Unit

Fifteen members and friends of the Ulster County Chapter of CORE and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

They plan to demonstrate outside Convention Hall sometime tonight, asking the Democratic Party to seat the entire delegation of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party.

Meanwhile, in Atlantic City, an Associated Press report stated that Mississippi's delegation is boycotting the convention, declaring it "did not leave the party — it left us."

Alabama Staying

The Alabama contingent is staying on, despite a ruling it can't participate without signing a party loyalty pledge. Although it got to its feet with other delegations Tuesday night when those who support the party were asked to rise, National Chairman John M. Bailey said as far as he was concerned the Alabama delegation is not official participants.

As developments involving the two Southern delegations ticked off Tuesday night, hundreds of supporters of the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party demonstrated at the Convention Hall after only five of its delegates had gained entrance.

30 Took Seats

By the time the session recessed, some 30 of the Freedom Democrats were in seats in the section reserved for the Mississippi delegation, although only two of the contesting group were entitled to be on the floor.

What happened was this: The credentials committee recommended — and the convention approved — a compromise proposal in the Mississippi contest which would have seated the regular Mississippi delegates provided they signed a loyalty pledge, and which also would have seated as at-large delegates two of the Negro group.

The regulars balked. In an angry statement drafted in a two-hour caucus, the Mississippi all-white group said that never before had a legally constituted delegation been required to sign such a loyalty pledge.

They also protested that the proposal would seat an outside pressure group with no legal claim to delegate status.

Three of the regulars — Doug Wynn, Fred Berger and Randy Halladay — signed the loyalty pledge and, after being given credentials, sat down in the Mississippi section.

Three Regulars Leave

Convention Terms Are Explained

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The layman is often confused by the terms used at a political convention.

Actually, they all are quite simple when you understand them. Here are some of the terms heard frequently this week around the Democratic convention and their simple explanations:

Delegation—This is a group of 132 people who come to the convention to cast 12 votes. Included are all persons in the state who contributed more than $1,000 to the party in the last year, and all persons in the state who know what happened to the contributions. There are also three men who are able to breathe in smoke-filled rooms.

Delegate—A member of a delegation. Each delegate casts about 1-16th of a vote — less in some states — whenever he is asked, which is seldom.

Caucus

A meeting of a delegation called to cast votes and decide important questions. All members of the delegations attend except the officers, who are busy at a meeting of party leaders casting votes and deciding important questions.

Informal caucus—Same thing, only drinks are served.

Starting time—A mythical figure selected at random from a spilled pile case at the print shop. It is listed in the official program, but bears no relation to the time the program actually starts.

Best Slot

Prime time — The hours on the television schedule between the kiddie cartoons and the late show, during which the commercials are played more often and cost more.

Platform

"War and Peace," with the exciting parts left out.

Favorite son candidate—A fellow, usually a senator or a governor, who is boosted for office by his neighbors who want every one to know that even though he hasn't a chance they are willing to part with him, anyway.

Distinguished—The adjective used for every man ever elected to any job which salary is paid by the taxpayer. Includes those who ran unopposed.

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—His physician says Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz, R-Sullivan, sought as a witness by a grand jury investigating an alleged racketeer — license bribe, is "a very sick man."

Dr. Samuel G. Holtzman, the physician, said Tuesday Mintz was rushed back to Monticello hospital from his home in South Fallsburgh Monday night. Mintz, a cardiac patient, had been released from the hospital Sunday.

The Manhattan district attorney's office has tried unsuccessfully to get Mintz to appear before the grand jury in New York City.

Monday, a judge appointed a heart specialist to examine Mintz to see if he could safely make the trip to New York City. Earlier medical testimony conflicted on this point.

Peaceful Ritual Is Expected

Humphrey Gets McCarthy Praise

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Democrats turn from convention battles to the loud but peaceful ritual tonight of acclaiming President Johnson as their nominee and hearing finally his choice of a running mate.

All hands — including Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's — pointed to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the bustling quick-talking party whip in the Senate as the man Johnson wants for vice president.

McCarthy, who had been another favorite in the vice-presidential derby, declared today in favor of Humphrey, a fellow Minnesotan.

Sends His Praise

McCarthy sent a telegram to Johnson this morning, acknowledging he had been interested for several weeks in the job but concluding:

"It is my opinion the qualifications that you have listed or which you are said to have listed as most desirable in the man who would be vice president with you would be met admirably by Senator Humphrey."

"I wish therefore to recommend for your primary consideration Senator Hubert H. Humphrey."

Sometime in the next few hours, Johnson will — one way or another — make his choice known.

But no one professed in advance to know just how or when.

Ready for Big Show

Delegates who eddied around in this football field-sized hall had gone through all of the characteristic motions of a Democratic convention and now were ready for the big show.

They had adopted a platform giving the Republicans what-for but carefully tailored to fit Johnson's prescription for a consensus party within which Southern conservatives could labor alongside Northern liberals in the campaign vineyard for the President's election in November.

They patched up a compromise nobody liked over the question of seating a Mississippi delegation not pledged to support the national ticket.

Five members of the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party gained entrance to the hall and sat down in the all-but-empty seats under the state's banner, where they weren't supposed to be.

Vanished in Crowd

Promptly the only three members of the all-white regulars who had agreed to go along with Johnson — and thus had been seated — vanished in the crowd.

Alabama delegates who had refused to take the loyalty pledge but had filled up the seats in that state's sector shouted a loyalty yell when House Speaker John W. McCormack, who took over as the convention's permanent chairman, asked for it.

The Alabamians said this made them legal delegates. Bailey said he knew nothing about any such arrangement, adding that "they are not in the convention." Since no roll calls seemed likely, nobody seemed to care much who sat in the Alabama chairs.

Skillful maneuvering kept the credentials fight off the convention floor.

State GOP Campaigners Will Employ Carpetbagger Charge in Senate Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and other New York Republican campaigners plan to use the "carpetbagger" charge to its utmost against Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

They started right in Tuesday as the brother of the late President John F. Kennedy declared his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator.

Kennedy, a Massachusetts resident who has been living in Virginia, appeared assured of nomination next Tuesday, although Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam pledged a down-the-line fight to win it for himself.

Even as Kennedy appeared at a news conference in New York

City to announce his candidacy, GOP State Chairman Fred A. Young moved to the attack.

Young said nomination of an "outsider" would improve greatly Keating's chances for election to a second term. Keating, a life-long resident of the state, resides in the Rochester suburb of Brighton.

Kennedy's nomination, said Young, "will mean a half-million or more votes for Sen. Keating than he otherwise probably would receive."

Gov. Rockefeller, who says he will campaign hard for Keating, set the tone of his attack last week when he said nomination of Kennedy would be a disaster for the people of New York.

"I don't think New Yorkers are going to want to have a boss-picked candidate, picked from outside the state," Rockefeller said.

Kennedy and New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who has assumed the role of his sponsor, are well aware of the problem they face but are counting on the asset of his famous name to offset the liability.

Kennedy said:

"...New York is the supreme testing ground for the most acute national problems of our time—the problems of racial harmony, of employment, of youth, of education, and of the quality of urban and suburban life."

In New York City, the Conservative Party, a statewide or

Ready for Big Show

Delegates who eddied around in this football field-sized hall had gone through all of the characteristic motions of a Democratic convention and now were ready for the big show. They had adopted a platform giving the Republicans what-for but carefully tailored to fit Johnson's prescription for a consensus party within which Southern conservatives could labor alongside Northern liberals in the campaign vineyard for the President's election in November.

They patched up a compromise nobody liked over the question of seating a Mississippi delegation not pledged to support the national ticket.

Five members of the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party gained entrance to the hall and sat down in the all-but-empty seats under the state's banner, where they weren't supposed to be.

Vanished in Crowd

Promptly the only three members of the all-white regulars who had agreed to go along with Johnson — and thus had been seated — vanished in the crowd.

Alabama delegates who had refused to take the loyalty pledge but had filled up the seats in that state's sector shouted a loyalty yell when House Speaker John W. McConrack, who took over as the convention's permanent chairman, asked for it.

The Alabamians said this made them legal delegates. Bailey said he knew nothing about any such arrangement, adding that "they are not in the convention." Since no roll calls seemed likely, nobody seemed to care much who sat in the Alabama chairs.

Skillful maneuvering kept the credentials fight off the convention.

State GOP Campaigners Will Employ Carpetbagger Charge in Senate Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and other New York Republican campaigners plan to use the "carpetbagger" charge to its utmost against Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

They started right in Tuesday as the brother of the late President John F. Kennedy declared his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator. Kennedy, a Massachusetts resident who has been living in Virginia, appeared assured of nomination next Tuesday, although Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam pledged a down-the-line fight to win it for himself.

City to announce his candidacy, GOP State Chairman Fred A. Young moved to the attack.

Young said nomination of an "outsider" would improve greatly Keating's chances for election to a second term. Keating, a life-long resident of the state, resides in the Rochester suburb of Brighton.

Kennedy's nomination, said Young, "will mean a half-million or more votes for Sen. Keating than he otherwise probably would receive."

Gov. Rockefeller, who says he will campaign hard for Keating, set the tone of his attack last week when he said nomination of Kennedy would be a disaster for the people of New York.

"I don't think New Yorkers are going to want to have a boss-picked candidate, picked from outside the state," Rockefeller said.

Kennedy and New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who has assumed the role of his sponsor, are well aware of the problem they face but are counting on the asset of his famous name to offset the liability.

Kennedy said: "... New York is the supreme testing ground for the most acute national problems of our time — the problems of racial harmony, of employment of youth, of education and of the quality of urban and suburban life."

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)

—This is the dullest political convention since the one the Republicans held in 1956, and for the same reason. Yet, it has its own special fascination in the things unseen and unsaid.

In 1956 the Republicans met to go through the motions of approving the untested renomination of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Here the Democrats are doing the same for the untested nomination of President Johnson.

Then and now there was the usual routine of blasting the opposition.

But the Democratic speakers, reciting the wonders of the administration of Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy, bracket both men in their eulogies without mentioning the differences between them.

Greatest Difference
Perhaps the greatest difference was this: Kennedy was an individual kind of president; Johnson is far more the organizational man.

Kennedy at the time of his death was still young enough to give a sense of youth to the presidency. Johnson can't. He is deeper in middle age.

The words of Kennedy, a far better read man than Johnson and therefore more literary in his thinking, had a sparkle which Johnson's more pedestrian speeches never achieve.

There was a sense of gaiety about Kennedy, a wit and detachment about himself and his job, which is lacking in Johnson who sounds more deadly serious and sometimes even doleful.

But Kennedy wasn't in the same league with Johnson in unrelenting presidential drive aimed at persuading people — particularly in Congress — to melt their differences to do what he wanted or some of what he wanted.

Master at Organizing
He works at organizing his forces in a way Kennedy, just because of his detachment, might never have mastered. It seems a basic part of Johnson's make-up that he must succeed, if not entirely, at least a bit.

It's this part of Johnson which showed up at this convention while he remained in Washington. There can hardly be any doubt his guiding hand is running the show.

If the tone of this convention could be summed up in one word it would be: moderation. The moderation has a double purpose obvious before the convention ever opened here Monday.

Special Significance
The object is keeping the Democrats united while attracting as many independents and Republicans as possible. This is the usual political tactic, of course, but this year it has a special significance.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, by his positions on issues and the uncompromising tactics of his supporters at this year's Republican convention, has antagonized a number of Republicans.

The proof is in the fact that after the convention he found it necessary to have a unity meeting with some of the Republican leaders.

To preserve party unity Johnson from the beginning took the opposite course, although total unity seems impossible in those Southern areas where whites have already expressed their antagonism to the racial issue.

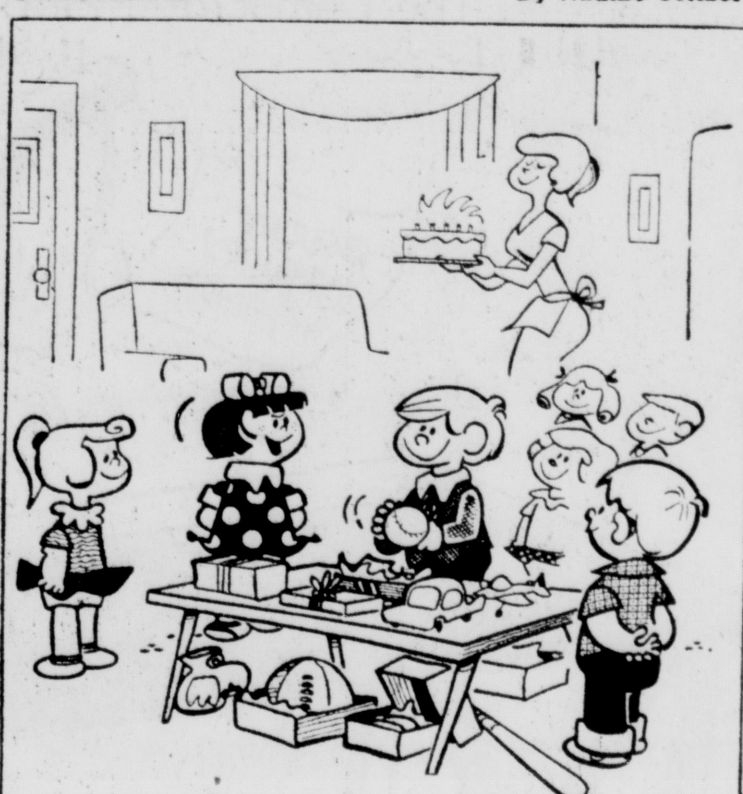

Language of Compromise
But, as the platform shows, Johnson tried to straddle this ticklish situation by the language of compromise.

In a clear effort to keep Southern and Negroes under the Democratic tent the platform assured the latter the Johnson administration would enforce their rights while saying so in language so mild it is calculated not to inflame the South. For those Republicans who may find Goldwater too forceful or too conservative for their taste, the Democratic platform's moderate liberalism is offered as an inducement to go along with Johnson.

All this is implicit, if unstated, in what has happened here. And all of it is implicit in Johnson's philosophy, illustrated many times in the past, of how to organize to get what he wants.

Helicopter Crash Claims Fourth Victim

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A helicopter crash during last month's weekend of racial violence here, has claimed a fourth victim.

Robert N. Abbott, Monroe County civil defense director, died in a Rochester hospital Tuesday of burns suffered July 26 when the craft smashed into a three-story house while on a surveillance flight and burst into flames.

Abbott, 49, was in the helicopter. The pilot and two persons in the house were killed in the accident.

Snyder Describes History of Canes At Lions Meeting

Highlight of the Kingston Lions Club meeting Tuesday was a speech on the history of canes and walking sticks delivered by noted area lecturer Frederic Snyder.

Described was the development of walking sticks from the beginning of civilization to the coming of the automobile. Snyder said the staff symbolizes life and has proved important in all areas of history.

Visual aids supplied by the speaker included canes representing the national craftsmanship of Romania, Japan, France, Sweden, Korea, Southern Bavaria, India and other countries. Some of Snyder's canes on display figured in his personal life while on tour in foreign nations. A sword cane on exhibit may have saved his life from the Japanese while he was in Peking, China, Snyder remarked.

Other sticks in his collection included a cane from the desk of a Russian Czar and one that was involved in an assassination plot against Adolf Hitler, Snyder pointed out.

The most valuable single cane in North America today, a star cane made of pure amber with a star of 18 karat gold set in the head, was shown and described by the speaker.

Rabies Is Still Severe Threat, Drachman Warns

"All pet dogs and cats should be vaccinated against rabies for the protection of the family, the community and the pet," Dr. Theodore S. Drachman, Commissioner of the Ulster County Department of Health stated today. Although the prevalence of this deadly disease has been greatly reduced by vaccination and closer supervision of family pets, it continues to be a threat. The possibility always exists that unvaccinated pets may be bitten by a stray dog, cat or wild animal that has the disease. All unvaccinated animals are susceptible and can transmit the disease to people.

The rabies virus is present in the saliva of infected animals, and even the lick of a rabid animal on a cut or an abrasion of the skin can cause the infection. If an infected person develops symptoms of the disease and medical treatment is not provided, death is inevitable.

Animals such as stray dogs, skunks, squirrels, foxes and raccoons are among the most frequent spreaders of the disease, and recently bats have been found to be an important source of infection. In the United States more than 100 attacks of people by rabid bats have been reported.

Children should be taught to avoid stray animals and not to feed squirrels or other animals by hand in camping areas, preserves or parks. Campers, hunters and fishermen should be cautious of contact with animal wildlife, any of which may be infected with rabies.

Whenever possible an animal that has bitten someone should be captured alive and placed under the observation of a veterinarian or other qualified person to determine whether or not it has rabies.

Anyone bitten by an animal should receive immediate first aid by thorough cleansing of the wound with water and soap or detergent, followed by a mild antiseptic. Medical advice and aid should be obtained as soon as possible.

Police Did Good Job

It is indeed a sad state of affairs when the Town Constable of Woodstock has to be put on the carpet because of alleged police brutality while trying to protect its citizens and keep law and order intact.

Who are those strangers who come to this peaceful and artistic colony to start discord and cause incidents to happen.

As an eye witness to the July 12 fracas on the Village Green, I was surprised to see a truck drive up to discharge total strangers, who immediately took over this town by throwing themselves all over the green in their scanty attire, drinking beer, and sitting on the monument dedicated to our war heroes, and crushing the beautiful flowers so lovingly cared for by our Woodstockers. Others were singing and strumming guitars to the annoyance of many people.

When the Town Police interfered to restore order they were met by a great deal of abuse, and also by some of our citizens who intervened in the behalf of those troublemakers. Why?

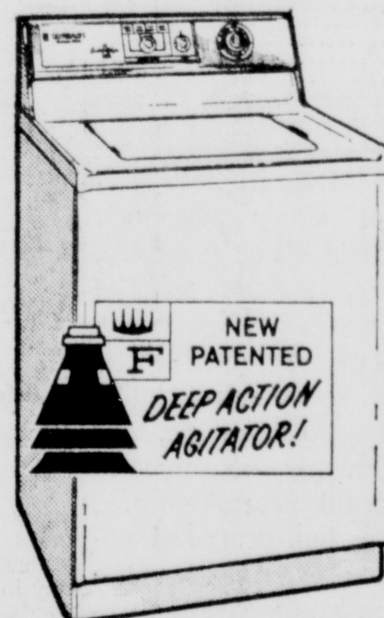

In fact, the officer that is being criticized for police brutality went so far as to give his club to another officer so he wouldn't be tempted to use it as he was subduing them.

As to my version of this incident, the Police did a good job in dispersing them. My only regret is that the Police were too lenient with them, and not tough enough.

Respectfully,

Youth Is Facing Murder, Assault In Two Beatings

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old youth faced murder and assault charges today in the beatings of two Albany men, one of whom died of his injuries.

The bodies of both men, critically hurt, were found in the same downtown section of Albany on Aug. 8. Police said they had been robbed.

Theodore R. Burke of Albany was charged Tuesday night with first-degree murder in the death of Bert Taber, 80, a retired state employee and second-degree assault in the beating of William Gillette, 40.

He was held for arraignment today.

Police said Burke was arrested in New York City Monday.

Italy is considered the birthplace of modern opera.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — This is the dullest political convention since the one the Republicans held in 1956, and for the same reason. Yet, it has its own special fascination in the things unseen and unsaid.

In 1956 the Republicans met to go through the motions of approving the uncontested renomination of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Here the Democrats are doing the same for the uncontested nomination of President Johnson.

Then and now there was the usual routine of blasting the opposition.

But the Democratic speakers, reciting the wonders of the administration of Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy, bracket both men in their eulogies without mentioning the differences between them.

Greatest Difference
Perhaps the greatest difference was this: Kennedy was an individual kind of president; Johnson is far more the organization man.

Kennedy at the time of his death was still young enough to give a sense of youth to the presidency. Johnson can't. He is deeper in middle age.

The words of Kennedy, a far better read man than Johnson and therefore more literary in his thinking, had a sparkle which Johnson's more pedestrian speeches never achieve.

There was a sense of gaiety about Kennedy, a wit and detachment about himself and his job, which is lacking in Johnson who sounds more deadly serious and sometimes even dour.

But Kennedy wasn't in the same league with Johnson in unrelenting presidential drive aimed at persuading people — particularly in Congress — to melt their differences to do what he wanted or some of what he wanted.

Master at Organizing
He works at organizing his forces in a way Kennedy, just because of his detachment, might never have mastered. It seems a basic part of Johnson's make-up that he must succeed, if not entirely, at least a bit.

It's this part of Johnson which showed up at this convention while he remained in Washington. There can hardly be any doubt his guiding hand is running the show.

If the tone of this convention could be summed up in one word it would be: moderation. The moderation has a double purpose obvious before the convention ever opened here Monday.

Special Significance
The object is keeping the Democrats united while attracting as many independents and Republicans as possible. This is the usual political tactic, of course, but this year it has a special significance.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, by his positions on issues and the uncompromising tactics of his supporters at this year's Republican convention, has antagonized a number of Republicans.

The proof is in the fact that after the convention he found it necessary to have a unity meeting with some of the Republican leaders.

To preserve party unity Johnson from the beginning took the opposite course, although total unity seems impossible in those Southern areas where whites have already expressed their antagonism on the racial issue.

Language of Compromise
But, as the platform shows, Johnson tried to straddle the ticklish situation by the language of compromise.

In a clear effort to keep Southerners and Negroes under the Democratic tent the platform assured the latter the Johnson administration would enforce their rights while saying so in language so mild it is calculated not to inflame the South.

For those Republicans who may find Goldwater too forceful or too conservative for their taste, the Democratic platform's moderate liberalism is offered as an inducement to go along with Johnson.

All this is implicit, if unstated, in what has happened here. And all of it is implicit in Johnson's philosophy, illustrated many times in the past, of how to organize to get what he wants.

Helicopter Crash Claims Fourth Victim

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A helicopter crash during last month's weekend of racial violence here, has claimed a fourth victim.

Robert N. Abbott, Monroe County civil defense director, died in a Rochester hospital Tuesday of burns suffered July 26 when the craft smashed into a three-story house while on a surveillance flight and burst into flames.

Abbott, 49, was in the helicopter. The pilot and two persons in the house were killed in the accident.

Snyder Describes History of Canes At Lions Meeting

Highlight of the Kingston Lions Club meeting Tuesday was a speech on the history of canes and walking sticks delivered by noted area lecturer Frederic Snyder.

Described was the development of walking sticks from the beginning of civilization to the coming of the automobile. Snyder said the staff symbolizes life and has proved important in all areas of history.

Visual aids supplied by the speaker included canes representing the national craftsmanship of Romania, Japan, France, Sweden, Korea, Southern Bavaria, India and other countries. Some of Snyder's canes on display figured in his personal life while on tour in foreign nations. A sword cane on exhibit may have saved his life from the Japanese while he was in Peking, China, Snyder remarked.

Other sticks in his collection included a cane from the desk of a Russian Czar and one that was involved in an assassination plot against Adolf Hitler, Snyder pointed out.

The most valuable single cane in North America today, a star cane made of pure amber with a star of 18 karat gold set in the head, was shown and described by the speaker.

At Dem Convention Most of Action Is Over Seating Miss. Delegates

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After two days of watching television coverage of the Democratic National Convention, one might fairly conclude that all the reporters converged on Atlantic City primarily to cover the excitement about seating the Mississippi delegates.

But that was where the action was. Again Tuesday night, speakers on the platform got short shrift from all three networks, whose attention focused constantly on the turbulent sit-in by members of the Freedom Democratic Party in the Mississippi section.

At one point the press of reporters and interested delegates in the section became so fierce that CBS floor reporter Mike Wallace looked desperately toward the cameras, crying "This is simply chaos — help!" The horde of electronic journalists kept out of each other's way — and their faces out of each other's cameras — with remarkable agility.

The long, long reading of the party platform, which practically emptied Convention Hall, put something of a strain on the three network teams in the goldfish bowls above the hall. ABC and CBS handled it with analyses of events and interviews with floor. NBC's Chas. Huntley and David Brinkley had a humorous conversation about convention literature. They put on a taped interview by Nancy Dickerson with the distaff members of President Johnson's family, made days ago in Washington. Huntley did a philosophical, tongue-in-cheek monologue about the difference between Republican and Democratic women, concluding that the former were more likely to wear hats than the latter.

George Gobel, who was scheduled to do "humorous commentaries" for ABC, turned up only in the commercials. Maybe he didn't think anything was funny.

Teacher Swims Seneca Lake in 24-Hour Time

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Mathematics teacher Russell Chaffee doesn't have to practice swimming for 36 days.

Russell, who swims a mile a day for practice, completed Tuesday a swim that breached Seneca Lake from Geneva State Park to nearby Salt Point—a watery 36 miles.

Authorities believe the 37-year-old high school teacher is the first person to swim Seneca Lake from north to south.

Chaffee, whose original plan was to swim 37 miles to this Southwestern New York resort area, spent 24 hours in the chilly waters.

Three of his students in a canoe paddled by his side for the entire journey. "I'm in pretty good shape except that I'm cold," said the Sayre, Pa. resident when he walked ashore one mile off course.

Rabies Is Still Severe Threat, Drachman Warns

"All pet dogs and cats should be vaccinated against rabies for the protection of the family, the community and the pet," Dr. Theodore S. Drachman, Commissioner of the Ulster County Department of Health stated today. Although the prevalence of this deadly disease has been greatly reduced by vaccination and closer supervision of family pets, it continues to be a threat. The possibility always exists that unvaccinated pets may be bitten by a stray dog, cat or wild animal that has the disease. All unvaccinated animals are susceptible and can transmit the disease to people.

The rabies virus is present in the saliva of infected animals, and even the lick of a rabid animal on a cut or an abrasion of the skin can cause the infection. If an infected person develops symptoms of the disease and medical treatment is not provided, death is inevitable.

Animals such as stray dogs, skunks, squirrels, foxes and raccoons are among the most frequent spreaders of the disease, and recently bats have been found to be an important source of infection. In the United States more than 100 attacks of people by rabid bats have been reported.

Children should be taught to avoid stray animals and not to feed squirrels or other animals

by hand in camping areas, preserves or parks. Campers, hunters and fishermen should be cautious of contact with animal wildlife, any of which may be infected with rabies.

Whenever possible an animal that has bitten someone should be captured alive and placed under the observation of a veterinarian or other qualified person to determine whether or not it has rabies.

Anyone bitten by an animal should receive immediate first aid by thorough cleansing of the wound with water and soap or detergent, followed by a mild antiseptic. Medical advice and aid should be obtained as soon as possible.

Police Did Good Job

It is indeed a sad state of affairs when the Town Constable of Woodstock has to be put on the carpet because of alleged police brutality while trying to protect its citizens and keep law and order intact.

Who are those strangers who come to this peaceful and artistic colony to start discord and cause incidents to happen.

As an eye witness to the July 12 fracas on the Village Green, I was surprised to see a truck drive up to discharge total strangers, who immediately took over this town by throwing themselves all over the green in their scanty attire, drinking beer, and sitting on the monument dedicated to our war heroes, and crushing the beautiful flowers so lovingly cared for by our Woodstockers. Others were singing and strumming guitars to the annoyance of many people.

When the Town Police intervened to restore order they were met by a great deal of abuse, and also by some of our citizens who intervened in the behalf of those troublemakers. Why?

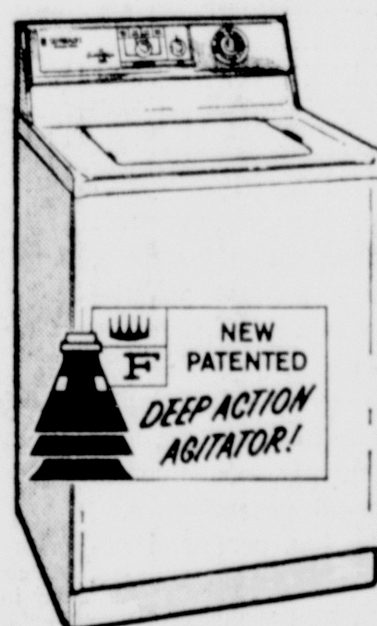

In fact, the officer that is being criticized for police brutality went so far as to give his club to another officer so he wouldn't be tempted to use it as he was subduing them.

As to my version of this incident, the Police did a good job in dispersing them. My only regret is that the Police were too lenient with them, and not tough enough.

Respectfully,

SPACE PREEMINENCE

Americans need not worry overmuch about the status of their space program, even though lightning damage to the Gemini launching pad was a setback to the lunar flight project. This may enable the Soviet Union to do a spectacular multi-manned orbital flight before we do, but other U.S. accomplishments continue to give this country over-all preeminence.

Our space technology has produced notable achievements, for example, in the fields of communication and weather forecasting. True global communication is not far off. The same can be said for global weather observation.

Global communication made a great advance when Syncom 3 was launched at Cape Kennedy the other day. If all goes well, it will relay televised coverage of the Olympic Games in Japan. That will be dramatic evidence of what such a satellite can do to improve world communications. The remarkable thing about this research vehicle is that it will take a position high above the Pacific Ocean and appear to hover there by virtue of maintaining a fixed speed in relationship to the earth.

Even more remarkable, in some ways, is the experimental weather satellite Nimbus. When aloft, this highly complex and sophisticated package of instruments will follow a near-polar orbit that will enable it to observe the entire surface of the globe once every 24 hours. Thanks to improved techniques, its weather-measuring devices will continually point toward the earth.

The launching of such objects may not be as sensational as some other space enterprises. But such achievements are the real basis of our position as the world leader in this new field.

THE EDIBLE PACKAGE

The ingenuity of the food processors continues to intrigue us. We still approach the frozen food containers at the grocery store with a residue of wonder, remembering the days when most food preparation was done in the home rather than by the processors. And new marvels keep appearing on the scene.

The modern housewife buys not only flavor, but convenience. And soon, we are told, it will be possible in many cases to consume what is inside the package without even removing the wrapper.

The container will be flexible, clear, colorless—and either tasteless or suitably flavored. It will be used for packaging frozen foods, candy, cereals, and perhaps even vitamin capsules. The edible package will be the last word — until something even more sensational comes along.

YOU'RE SUING? HAPPY WAITING!

For the 12th year the Institute of Judicial Administration of New York University has taken the pulse of the nation's judicial system.

Diagnosis: Hardening of the legal arteries. Prognosis: Still critical but improving. The statistics show that it takes an average of 17.6 months for a personal injury case to reach jury trial from the date on which a defendant files an answer to a complaint. Last year it was 18.6 months.

The annual survey is devoted to personal injury cases because they account for a substantial amount of litigation. Courts may be up to schedule in other areas, such as criminal or commercial calendars.

Not all the delays are to be blamed on the courts. Time has elapsed from the date of an injury to the institution of a suit, and more time to the filing of an answer to the complaint.

Even after a case is on the docket, "the law's delay" is often lawyers' delay. Many trial adjournments are caused by counsel who have not prepared their cases in time. At any rate, out of 107 principal courts of general jurisdiction throughout the United States, 14 courts, or 13.1 per cent, reported delays of more than 30 months. In general, legal congestion paralleled population congestion.

A MEXICANIZED PARTY?

ATLANTIC CITY—One lesson to be learned from the lobbies of Atlantic City is that the Democratic Party is as seamed and fissured with antagonistic elements as the Republican Party. But nobody, save Governor Wallace and Bull Connor of Alabama and the two sets of delegates from Mississippi, seems to want to do anything about it.

For example, the two senators from Georgia, Dick Russell and Herman Talmadge, appear to have made themselves scarce. They might, conceivably, have some mild objections to certain planks in the platform, something of a volte-face to be compared to Governor Romney's attempted "improvement" on the Republican civil rights planks (though in a different direction). But the Georgia senators aren't muddying any waters; they are being graceful about things.

Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia doesn't seem to be here, either. His friends say this is nothing unusual. So nothing is made of his differences with the high command of the party.

On foreign policy, the "covenant of unity" (that's the official description of the platform) makes a lot of promises that will be assailed from both extremes of the Democratic Party the very next time an issue reaches the floor of the U.S. Senate. "We pledge unflinching devotion to our commitments to freedom from Berlin to South Viet Nam," says the platform.

But Wayne Morse (Democrat from Oregon), Ernest Gruening (Democrat from Alaska), and even Montana's Mike Mansfield, who was on many lists as a possible vice presidential nominee have advocated a cut and run policy in Southeast Asia. On the other hand, Senator Tom Dodd of Connecticut is known to consider the broad statements in the Democratic platform on peace and foreign policy to be weak from the anti-Communist point of view. Dodd might agree with what the platform says about the "international Communists' loss of unity," however, when the platform announced that Communism had lost its "momentum," Dodd raised a skeptical eyebrow. He reads the news from South Viet Nam and the Congo differently.

But, after all, what difference do the differences make? Unlike the Republicans, the Democrats are always forgiven by the fashionable "liberal" opinion-makers who seem to carry the day in the U.S. With the liberals, the Democratic Party has the same sort of dispensation that the Mexican Party of revolutionary institutions receives from the Mexican voters. The Mexican Party is all things to all Mexicans. To the Indian in his agricultural commune, it is still the party that, Lenin-fashion, "expropriated the expropriators" and made land available to everybody. But the "bourgeois" elements that have been gathering strength in Mexico have discovered they have very little to fear from any party of revolutionary institutions president. The Mexican president, today, is the president of all the people, and this party is the party of all the people. Lyndon Johnson aspires to preside over a similar Mexicanization of his own party (left, right, and center segments) and nation.

Not everybody in the U.S. is willing to let Johnson have his way. Johnson can argue that the most recent poll records (which he flashes on visitors very much as he used to flash his bill of cardiac good health) show that he's got it made in November. For example, the polls from Milwaukee do not indicate any statistical drift of backslashing Poles from the Democratic Party ranks. But Milwaukee people here at Atlantic City tell you not to trust the polls on the Poles. And Southerners who would like to believe Johnson when he tells the southern governors that he will get all the states below the Mason-Dixon line save Virginia, Florida, Mississippi, and Alabama just don't go with such optimism.

However, to carry out the Mexicanization analogy, the business classes are finding they can live with the poor of Appalachia under the same Democratic Party tent. Edwin L. Weiss Sr., displacing Carmine DeSapio as Democratic national committee man in New York State, will carry many businessmen friends into the LBJ fold. Extremes are meeting in the Democratic Party—and this is an extremism that Barry Goldwater cannot welcome.

The DOCTOR SAYS

What's in a Medical Name?

Specialists Are Explained
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Physiologist. There's a $64 word. If you ever needed the services of such a man, you were under the care of a doctor who specialized in the treatment of tuberculosis.

The practice of medicine has expanded so greatly that lots of specialists are required. Many people wonder about these titles. Let's try to clear the air.

An anesthesiologist does not always put you to sleep. He may inject a drug into your spinal canal so that you can remain awake throughout your operation. A dermatologist is a skin specialist and a gerontologist or geriatrician specializes in the diseases of the aged—a field that is growing because of the increased proportion of persons over 60 in our population.

The internist treats the so-called internal diseases but does not operate. His special field has been subdivided to include our old friend, the phthisiologist; the gastroenterologist, who treats of the digestive tract; the endocrinologist, who treats diseases of the glands of internal secretion (pancreas, pituitary, thyroid and sex glands); the cardiologist or heart specialist; the rheumatologist and the allergist.

The obstetrician gives prenatal care to expectant mothers, delivers them and cares for them during the postnatal period, and the gynecologist is a surgeon who treats all other conditions of the female reproductive system. These two specialties are usually practiced by the same man.

The oncologist specializes in the treatment of tumors, especially cancer.

The ophthalmologist is a surgeon who fits glasses and treats all diseases of the eyes. The otologist treats the ears; the rhinologist, the nose; and the laryngologist, the throat. More often a surgeon, the otorhinolaryngologist, treats all three fields. The orthopedist is a surgeon who treats fractures, dislocations, and other diseases of the bones and joints.

The pathologist specializes in laboratory procedures and when all else fails he performs an autopsy to determine the true cause of death. One of his chief services to the living is the microscopic examination of tissue specimens taken to determine the nature of a lesion. A pediatrician takes care of infants and children, but he now has a counterpart, the ephediatrician, who takes care of the very special problems of teen-agers. The psychiatrist is a specialist in treatment and rehabilitation by physical means.

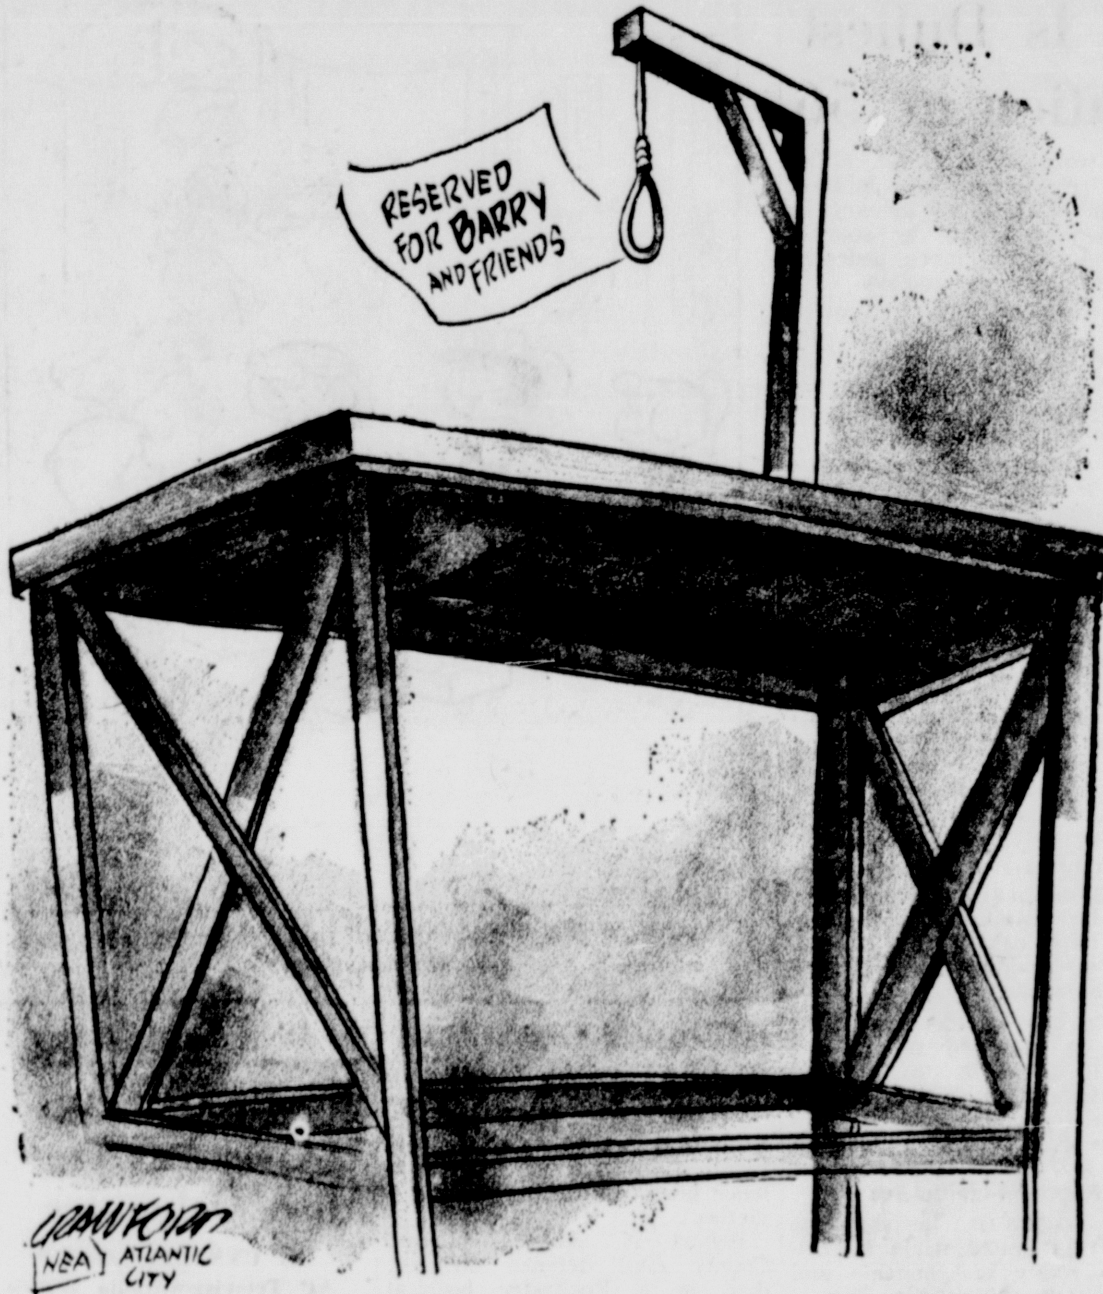

The proctologist is a surgeon who takes care of rectal diseases. The radiologist or roentgenologist not only interprets X-ray films—he gives treatments with X-rays, radium and radioisotopes. The urologist is a surgeon who limits his practice to diseases of the kidneys and male reproductive organs.

Although this list is not complete, let's not neglect the greatest specialist of all, the general practitioner, who, it has been truly said, specializes in all the diseases of men, women and children.

was the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill. (Chicago), with an average delay of 57.6 months. (It was 68 months in 1963.)

At the other end of the scale was the District Court of Yellowstone County, Mont. (Billings), with a wait of only 1.7 months.

Washington News

BY RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Mr. X shall be nameless for obvious reasons. He is a Nung tribesman from a North Viet Nam province on the China border.

He speaks Chinese, French, English, Lao, Cambodian, Vietnamese and two North Viet Nam tribal languages.

He looks like a Chinese. He has lived in China. He has 253 followers trained in guerrilla warfare and in security. One of his aides was a major in the Chinese Nationalist Army in China's war against the Communists.

For five years Mr. X fought against the Reds as a Viet Nam officer in the Communist-infested Delta region of the south. His father is a major general in the Vietnamese Army.

X has close connections with several religious sects in North and South Viet Nam.

ONCE GIVEN THE GO-AHEAD signal, X and his men are prepared to infiltrate into Cambodia, then drift northward through Laos and slowly work their way to the northern border regions of North Viet Nam.

He estimates it would take several months to reach their working areas.

Once there, X and selected members of his group would pose as Chinese Communists. As "Chinese" they would have a considerable amount of freedom and not be subject to the tight security which makes movement difficult for ordinary North Vietnamese. Some would pose as Chinese merchants. Others would adopt a variety of covers.

Some of X's men would infiltrate certain tribal areas where there is growing dissatisfaction with Ho Chi Minh's Red regime. Others would drift to cities and towns, make contact with unhappy Catholics and other dissatisfied groups.

THE FIRST MISSION of the X group would be to exist. Then X and his men would slowly, cautiously build up cells of anti-Communist citizens.

For months, perhaps a year or more, this quiet organizational buildup would be the major function of the X group.

Once they had secured their existence and had built a basic organization of friends, they would begin to collect intelligence.

They would set up way stations and hideouts for successive groups of agents brought in by air and sea.

WHEN THE TIME WAS RIPE, and the agent apparatus large enough, they would begin to develop sabotage.

They would teach farmers how to hide their rice from the Communist authorities, teach them how much rice they could safely hide.

With enough farmers co-operating this could significantly slow rice deliveries. In North Viet Nam, where food is already short, poor deliveries could give the authorities fits.

The X group would teach factory workers how to slow down their work and to sabotage machinery without being caught. They would teach city people how to start rumors, set fires, interrupt phone and telegraph communications, blow bridges.

At the proper time, these cells could co-operate with other projected U.S.-South Vietnamese activities in the north.

X says he would have no trouble getting additional volunteers. There are hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese and tribesmen from the north now living in South Viet Nam.

Looking at the Convention And Liking No Part of It

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

ATLANTIC CITY — The American people really don't know what's going on here or how it can affect their destiny—their lives, their property, their freedoms in the communities where they live, their opportunities to conserve the value of their hard-earned money. The people do not know what is back of the political chicanery and the boastful phrases and the artificial glamor that surround a national convention, whether it is a Democrat or a Republican affair. Still, the people are asked to choose one or the other of the men nominated by the two unrepresentative gatherings.

The Democratic convention this week unfortunately presents the image of an organized show, lacking in dignity, lacking in respect for the delegates, and lacking in regard for the electorate itself. For the objective seems to be to find the best way to fool the people. This involves palpable showmanship and repeated assurances to the voters that all their worries are over, that there is to be an unending prosperity, and that their sons will not have to be drawn into any war.

The exuberant phrases of pride in the Administration's activities, reflected in the speeches, are matched only by the vehement denunciations of opponents. These utterances, of course, are characteristic pieces of demagoguery evident in all political conventions. One wonders how long the American people are going to stand for such manifest nonsense.

Even outdoors around the convention hall there are "rallies" designed primarily to attract television cameras and the press so that they can report for instance, what was said by Adam Clayton Powell, Negro clergyman, who is the Democrat representing the Harlem district in Congress and chairman of the all-important Committee on Education and Labor of the House of Representatives. He told a cheering crowd that Sens. Eastland and Stennis of Mississippi, Democrats, are "the number one hoodlums of the nation."

But there were no resolutions adopted by the convention denouncing this as "extremism." Nor was there any denunciation by name of these organizations which incited the violence and "hooliganism" in Harlem recently and in other cities of the country. This "extremism," of course, was not confined to spoken epithets or innuendoes but extended to acts of violence that cost several lives and caused injury to many innocent persons as well as millions of dollars of damage to private property.

Madrid, Spain — The chauffeur drove through the soft blue velvet dusk up into University City and turned right and came to a stop at filigreed iron gates, and tapped the horn. The sun was behind the Guadarramas tossing shafts of orange and pinks and lavenders at the sky in a farewell wave of a fan. A man came to the gate, and made some motions to unlock the gates, and the car moved into Casa Dorothea and stopped near a fountain.

The sparkling water made its own dissonant music and caught the dying light. A butler came to the door. He showed us through the marble foyer into the huge living room and out onto the patio. As a home, this one is a precious jewel. It sits like a diamond in the middle of a square emerald. Here, Samuel Bronston had his greatest triumphs as a producer — El Cid, 55 Days in Peking, The Fall of the Roman Empire — and here the DuPonts pulled the purse strings tight about his neck.

He stood on the patio, a short handsome man with white hair and the remnants of a Rumanian accent. We patted each other's backs, as friends sometimes do, and he brought us to Dorothea, his lovely wife, who reposed on a couch. "Forgive me," she said. "I'm pregnant and I cannot hold onto food."

Little Karen and Kathleen became interested at once, because babies are of greater interest to them than school or games. They sat in their Sunday best, smoothing their dresses, and listening to Kelly and Dorothea discuss why some ladies become ill at this time, and others do not. They have ears which are better attuned to subjects which do not concern them than topics which might be of academic interest to pre-teen minds.

Sam and I and their grown son Mike, walked down the cascading lawn toward the swimming pool and the little guest house which adjoins it. The guest house has the only pool table in all Spain. "I would like to smoke," Sam said, "and the odor makes Dorothea sick." It was getting dark now, and yellow coach lamps were flicked on. They made the grass look greener and cooler.

I told Bronston that I had read about his financial assassination, but I didn't understand it. He explained it, and I understood less. Bronston talks millions with the same abandon I use in discussing dimes. I gather that one of the DuPonts of Delaware had "backed" the Bronston productions and, because Sam had spent more on each picture than was figured, the credit had been withdrawn and the studio closed.

Sam retained an attorney named Louis Nizer, who practices law, and the DuPonts had a lawyer who practices singing named Thomas E. Dewey. The matter was in their hands, and Bronston looked forward to opening his Madrid studios again and staging the DeMille extravaganza which have made him famous, and temporarily broke. He thinks big and he thinks generously, and this is a combination which can put a producer in the position of not having the $1.50 to buy a ticket to see his own picture.

Still, his movies have an aura of lavishness, and they earn money. We talked about his troubles, and about Mike going to Columbia University this autumn. The Spanish butler announced that dinner was being served on the patio, so we sat at a hardwood table and enjoyed the heady scent of the Spanish night.

Dorothea did not eat. She reclined far enough away so that she could not smell the food, but near enough to hear the conversation. She and Sam had had earlier marriages, and they have three kinds of children: His, Hers, and Ours. Mrs. Bronston is lovely to look at, but she has an inner courage which resembles that of a female lion cornered in a cave: all claws and teeth.

When her husband's empire collapsed several months ago, it was necessary to close the studio, fire all the vice presidents and assistant vice presidents; the directors, associate producers, cameramen, editors, writers, set decorators, sound men, technicians, publicity men, distributors, stars, office girls, lighting experts, even the cleaning women.

"There was no longer any money. Motion pictures would continue to be made, but not, for the moment, by Samuel Bronston. Sam murmured some cursory curses, and began to fight the situation. Not Dorothea. She did the practical thing: she took all the beautiful jewels which Sam had given her over the years, and sold them.

Then she mortgaged the estate named after her for $400,000. "We must have some money around here," she said, "and I have it." She did it without explaining it to her husband and, when it was over, she told him that she had some private money in the bank, and to help himself.

After dinner, we made our adieus. Sam stood several feet out on the grass, puffing on a pipe and adoring his wife with his eyes. "Why do you think I got pregnant?" she said to Kelly. "I had to show Sam that I, for one, have faith in tomorrow." (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK (AP)—

Foreigners' share of American assets have gone up strikingly in recent months. And American investments abroad are setting records.

But there's a difference. The money flow is something short of making it two-way street.

In the case of Americans the big cause of the jump in dollar holdings outside the United States has been expansion of abroad. This is a trend which the U.S. Department of Commerce sees continuing.

Market Value Higher

Most of the gain in foreigners' stake in the American economy has come of late from the increased market value of their previously acquired holdings and only a little from new investments.

The department says that the total of American private holdings abroad climbed to $66 billion at the end of 1963, with that figure continuing to rise so far in 1964 at last year's rate, which is dubbed massive.

The investments here by foreign individuals and companies were put at $23 billion.

The U.S. government is hoping to attract more foreign investments here, both long-term and short-term, to help hold down the U.S. deficit in international payments that has been a problem in recent years.

But in 1963, when the value of foreign holdings rose by $2.6 billion, about $2 billion represented increase in prices of foreign-held American securities.

Rose to Record

American private investment abroad rose a record $6.3 billion in 1963. About $4.3 billion was new capital from this country and $1.5 billion was earnings from previous investments reinvested in foreign enterprises. Some $500 million represented gains in the market value of securities.

U.S. investors have been sending dollars abroad for several reasons. In the short-term securities market the lure was higher yields there compared to interest rates obtainable here. In long-term securities the goal was a rising stock market abroad that accompanies the big postwar economic boom. But this largely dried up when Western European stock prices turned down for while.

The big outflow of dollars, however, has been in the founding and expansion of American industrial subsidiaries abroad, or in the teaming up with foreign industrial concerns. The department puts such investment now as close to $41 billion.

Scout Pack 26 Has Annual Picnic

Despite threatening skies, Pack 26 Cub Scouts and their families gathered at Tillson Lake Sunday for the annual picnic.

Cubmaster Sylvester Brown had arrived early and set up camp in the pavilion. After lunch, many enjoyed swimming, volley ball, rollerskating, fishing, frog catching, while others had a few moments of solitude among the trees.

Promptly at 4:30 p. m. all gathered around the Ceremonial Campfire for an impressive ceremony on the "Strengthen American Heritage" theme. Commissioner Robert Tremper assisted by Cubmaster Brown, Scoutmaster Ronald Latz Sr., Asst. Scoutmaster Fred Kirk and Committeeman Harrison Cornish conducted the opening ceremony with four Cubs holding the American Flag and torches lighting the way to freedom. Those assembled joined in the singing of God Bless America, after which the traditional campfire was touched off by a few magic words by Commissioner Tremper. While the fire burned brightly Commissioner Tremper read the National Jamboree American Heritage scroll.

A skit was then presented by the Cubs on the ingredients that make a Good Cub Scout.

Bobcat induction was the only awards for the day and those boys inducted were Van Markle Jr., Ralph Koole and Leonard Galewallier. While their parents participated these boys were given their Bobcat pins by Cubmaster Brown.

Closing ceremonies was an original one by Cubmaster Brown with each Cub burning the signs of poor citizenship and pledging themselves to be good scouts.

Jacoby Explains His Slam Method

By OSWALD JACOBY

When you use any bid as an artificial demand to partner to tell you how many aces he holds, you can't use that bid with a natural meaning at the same time.

The Gerber four-club convention never became popular because players found too often that they needed natural four-club bids. The Blackwood four-no-trump has become popular because you can afford to use an artificial four no-trump call most of the time.

The North hand is the only one you have to see today. It is a rather unusual hand and when partner opens the bidding with one spade all you need to know is the number of aces he holds in order to bid to the right contract.

It is possible that he has no aces? In that case you should be able to make four no-trump. If he has just one ace you can make five clubs, but if you use

Blackwood to ask for aces you will be at five diamonds and there is a chance that you will be overboard.

If he holds two or three aces Blackwood works perfectly. You play six if he has two and a grand slam if he has three.

Part of the Jacoby slam method is to use the jump response of four clubs to any opening one bid as an ace request so that you can respond four clubs with this hand and keep out of all trouble.

If partner shows no aces by a bid of four diamonds you close the bidding at four no-trump.

If he shows one ace you settle for five clubs as the final response of four clubs to any three aces you bid the appropriate slam.

In 1801, Robert Morris, signer of the Declaration of Independence and financier of the Revolution, was released from a debtors' prison in Philadelphia.

In 1914, the Germans burned the Belgian city of Louvain.

In 1945, a United States fleet moved into Sagami Bay, south of Tokyo.

In 1945, the Japanese commander in the Philippines, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, opened surrender negotiations in northern Luzon.

Ten years ago — Soviet Communist party Secretary Khrushchev confirmed reports that Premier Georgi Malenkov and other government leaders had moved out of the Kremlin which would be opened to the public.

Five years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower flew to Bonn, West Germany, where he was greeted by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

One year ago — A nine-man team of U.N. observers started a survey in North Borneo and Sarawak to determine whether the people of the two British colonies wished to join the projected Federation of Malaysia.

Why Should Tired Working Woman Stand?

Montgomery Bus Incident Nine Years Ago Triggered CR Marches

DETROIT (AP) — In the rash of headlines over passage of the Civil Rights Act, over deaths in Mississippi and riots in Harlem, over sit-ins and stall-ins and the white backlash, perhaps few people today, white or Negro, remember a December evening on a Montgomery bus.

And yet the American Negro may have traveled farther and faster that night in Alabama than he did on the long road up from slavery or on the short dramatic march down Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues in Washington, D.C., last summer.

Even today, nine years later, the details of that evening are so lacking in drama and emotion content as to seem hardly the stuff of which history is made.

It was shortly after 5:30 p.m. and getting dark when seamstress Rosa Parks put aside a pile of new suits waiting alterations at her work bench in the Montgomery Fair department store and walked a weary half-block to the bus stop on Court Square.

She boarded the bus and took a seat about halfway down in the first seat behind the forward section reserved for white people. As was the prevailing custom and law at the time, Negroes yielded their seats and moved progressively toward the rear as more seats were needed to accommodate white patrons.

Sat Thinking of Home

Rosa Parks paid no attention that particular evening to the other passengers. The white section wasn't full yet and her thoughts were of home, 15 minutes away, where her husband, Raymond, a barber, was busy getting together dinner.

The first stop brought an influx of passengers who dutifully sorted themselves out in the bus, the Negroes crowding into the cluster of standees at the rear and the whites filling in the last seats in the section marked reserved for them.

Rosa Parks' thoughts were still miles from that crowded bus aisle when a white man came aboard at the next stop and stood behind the driver. The next thing she can remember is the heavy-set driver twisting around and addressing her and the other three Negroes in the first seats of the colored section: "Let me have those front seats."

For a moment, no one moved. Maybe, like her, the others weren't listening too attentively.

"You better make it light on yourselves and get up," the driver advised.

Then two Negroes across the aisle retreated to the rear, and the Negro at the window seat next to Rosa Parks stood up and she let him go by.

Doesn't Know Why

Even today, Mrs. Parks doesn't know exactly why she didn't move, why she kept her seat and set off the Montgomery bus strike that, in reality, launched the activist civil rights movement.

"I simply didn't think I should have to get up and stand in the back after I was there already," she said. She recalled the incident with a lingering trace of awe, as if it had happened to someone else. "It was one of those things that grow on you. They were killing people and burning churches, same as now."

A slender woman with grey-flecked hair, Mrs. Parks lives in Detroit now, many miles away from Montgomery, Ala., but not so many days distant from that Dec. 1, 1955, evening when she refused to move to the back of the bus.

Triggers Boycott

From her defiant stand sprung the Montgomery bus boycott, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s famed "walk to freedom" and a whole series of non-violent demonstrations that swept northward and westward across the nation.

Two years after that incident on the Montgomery bus, Mrs. Parks moved to Detroit to be with her mother, Leona McCauley, and her brother, who works in an automobile factory. The decision, she said, had nothing to do with the Montgomery boycott. Soon after she arrived, her husband found a job as a barber. She did sewing and alteration work at home for a time, but recently found a dressmaking job in a small factory.

"I don't feel a great deal of difference here, personally," she said in an interview. "Housing segregation is just as bad, and it seems more noticeable in the large cities. There is so much gradualism. I'm in favor of any move to show that we are dissatisfied and still haven't received our rights as citizens."

It Brought Change

Mrs. Parks, 51, has not given up the fight. She is vice president of her block club, which is dedicated to cultural and neighborhood improvements and planning a youth program that includes recreation and job guidance.

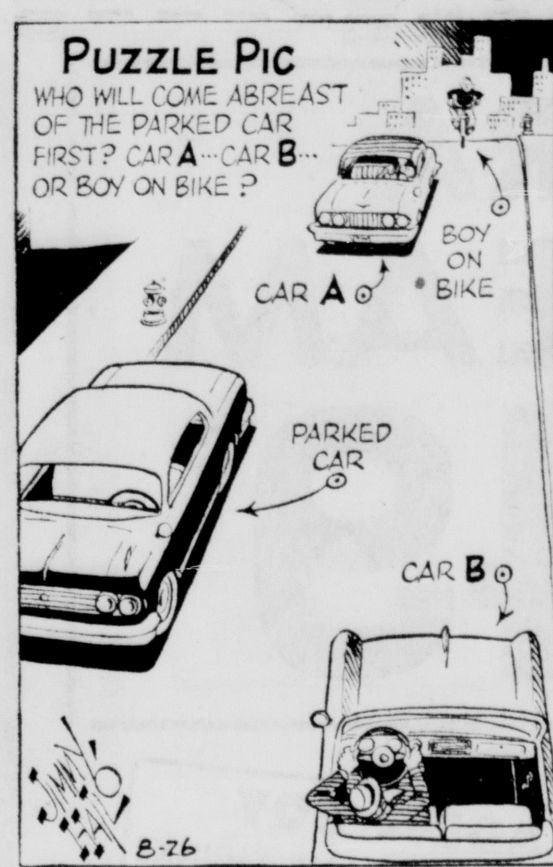

Looking back now, at that December evening in the bus and her subsequent arrest, on how the Negro ministers flocked behind Dr. King and rallied the Negro community with thousands of pamphlets, on how the majority of Montgomery's Negroes walked to work for 831 days until the bus segregation system, collapsed. On the $10 fine and court costs that she never paid, Rosa Parks had no regret whatsoever.

"It brought change," she said, "and any change is better than none at all."

Piggy Bank Trip Ends For Four Under 9

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Financed by piggy bank money, four children set out today on a 600-mile trip to St. Petersburg.

It began to rain before they got out of town, so they sought refuge in a car muffler shop. The shop owner contacted police, who ended the children's journey with 597 miles yet to go. The hitchhikers were a girl, 9, and her brother, 6; and two other boys, brothers, 8 and 9. Only the three boys had piggy bank money.

"I left mine at home because I didn't know we were going to Florida," explained the girl.

$6,000 in Clothing Stolen as 3 Watch

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A thief broke the side window of a station wagon and stole $6,000 worth of clothing in broad daylight while three persons watched, police reported Tuesday.

None of them reported the theft and officers quoted one of them as saying later that he did not want to get involved. The clothing, suits and topcoats, belonged to a salesman.

Driver, 98, Wants To Sell Fast '28 Car

PATTON, Pa. (AP) — Henry Myers, 98, wants to sell his 1928 Model A Ford sedan because "There's too much traffic and it moves too fast."

Myers said he bought the car new and paid $600 for it. He said it's been 68,000 miles—never over 50 miles per hour—and is in good condition.

"The fastest I ever drove was 45 miles an hour and that was because I was in a funeral procession and I had to keep up with the other cars," he said.

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — There's a Goldwater at the Democratic convention. In fact, there are two, one from New York and one from Nevada.

Neither claims relationship to the Republican presidential candidate, Barry Goldwater.

Bert M. Goldwater, a delegate from Nevada, says he is taking a lot of kidding about his name, but he figures it won't last past November.

Sometimes it seems that people are too busy these days to help someone in trouble. But there are people ready to help. More than many people think. Take the case of Mrs. John O'Brien of Rocky Point, New York. Her husband wrote us . . .

"Am writing to tell you how thoughtful and considerate Mr. Robert A. Ecklund of your company is.

"My wife was driving down Route 25-A when a tire came off her car. She was really shaken, and didn't know what to do. She walked down the road until she saw one of your trucks and a man working high up on a pole. She called up to him and told him what had happened. Without hesitation, he came down from the pole, walked to her car and changed her tire.

"Naturally, she asked his name. She and I want to thank you for having men such as Mr. Ecklund in your company. My wife has never been treated with such courtesy by people who serve the public."

Do people go out of their way to help strangers any more? Yes, lots of people do. Telephone people do. We're glad they do.

Board Inquiry Into Alleged Police Brutality Thursday

The Woodstock Town Board will conduct its formal inquiry into alleged local police brutality starting at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at town hall.

All eyewitnesses of the July 12 incident on the Village Green and other persons who may have pertinent information have been invited to testify under oath.

In setting the ground rules for the inquiry, the Town Board announced that only oral depositions would be accepted. Written statements will not be considered, as the board reserves the right to interrogate persons making statements.

Sass-Salzman

Maverick Hall

Music Praised

There was an unusually beautiful concert at the Maverick Hall in Woodstock on Sunday afternoon. Theodore Salzman, cellist, and Ilse Sass, pianist, gave a small but responsive audience an inspiring musical experience through their performance of works by Beethoven, Boccherini and Shostakovich.

One must applaud the opening of the program with the magnificent Sonata in A Major, Op. 69, by Beethoven (rather than the previously announced Boccherini). In meeting the exacting demands of this large work the musicians were able to give immediate evidence of superb technical proficiency and keen musical insight which set the standard for the whole concert. Whether listening to the beautiful pizzicato on the lower strings of the cello, the clear passage work in the upper register of the piano, singing melodic lines or intricate and irregular rhythmic patterns, one was quickly conscious of a special quality of the separate instruments and of their playing together.

This listener could not help associating the particular quality of tone achieved by Salzman with the unique sound of the cello of Pablo Casals. There was no attempt at imitation, but the association was particularly interesting in view of the later recording the inquiry, it is not known if this will be done. The board, however, has promised to make a public report at one of its future sessions.

The press will be barred from Thursday's inquiry.

The investigation stems from alleged incidents of police brutality involving local officers. A member of the staff of a nearby summer camp claims to have been beaten by one of the officers following his arrest for refusal to obey the officer's command. The officers have denied the charges.

Persons who wish to testify are asked to first register with the town clerk. They will be heard in order of registration. A night session will be conducted, if necessary.

discovered brief studies of Salzman with the great master. The special tone of the cello was greatly enhanced by the clear and sensitive playing of Miss Sass who supported and balanced, but never dominated her fellow artist.

Excellent Boccherini
The playing of the Boccherini Sonata in A Major was also excellent and following it Salzman announced the performance of an additional small work by Beethoven, which was not on the program. Salzman told the story of a rich merchant who particularly admired the music of Beethoven. He played the mandoline, and as there was little written for the instrument he asked Beethoven to write a work for him for which he would pay the composer 100 gold pieces. The delightful, simple Sonatina which Salzman and Miss Sass played — in an arrangement for cello and piano — was the result.

The final work was the Sonata in F Major, Op. 40, by Dmitri Shostakovich. Like the opening Beethoven, this was a demanding piece on a larger scale which called for the full range of technical skill and musical sensitivity. The duo had both at its command. Salzman's beautiful phrasing was particularly noticeable in the Largo movement, and one delighted in the short motives which were skillfully tossed between the piano and cello in the last, Allegretto movement. On the whole, this was a very exciting concert which one can only wish might have been more widely heard.

Three Classes
Three classes in Ulster County were part of a tryout group during the last school year. Mrs. Anne Fusick, a first grade teacher at Ontario's Bennett Elementary School at Boiceville, and her class were one of these. Mrs. Fusick's experience indicates that there is value in using a phonetic approach and that further investigation is warranted. Several teachers will continue experimentation and evaluation of the Words in Color method during the 1964-65 school year.

Ontario faculty members attended the Words in Color workshop included: Marion Blish, Mrs. Marjorie Clark, Mrs. Barbara DeMico, Mrs. Ethel Donaldson, Mrs. Florence Epstein, Mrs. Cora Ford, Mrs. Anna Fusick, Mrs. Joyce Goodrich, Mrs. Mildred Gordon, Mrs. Linda Gray, Mrs. Charlotte Hearn, Edward Hearn, Mrs. Carol Larson, Mrs. Anne Maroney, Mrs. Ann Mayer, Mrs. Frances Mehm, Miss Natalie O'Reilly, Mrs. Kathy Powell, Mrs. Dinah Schlesinger, Mrs. Ruth Simpson, Miss Virginia Slavik, Mrs. Ingrid Sternberg, and Ronald P. Vanni.

23 OCS Teachers Attend Session Words in Color

Twenty-three teachers of the Ontario Central Schools faculty recently attended a three-day workshop on new Words in Color reading program held at the Duzine School in New Paltz.

The group attended lectures, discussions and demonstration groups each day from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Demonstrations were held with entering first grade students and illiterate adults. Dr. Dorothea Hineman, consultant for Encyclopedia Britannica Press and Associate of Dr. Caleb Gattegno, originator of the new method, conducted the workshop. The Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County was the sponsor of the in-service training sessions. Teachers who completed the course were granted two in-service credits.

"Words in Color is a reading program designed for beginning readers, pupils who have been unable to learn to read, and adults who are functionally illiterate or foreign born. . . . The method makes the English language phonetic by printing each of the 47 sounds of English in a distinctive color on wall charts. Alphabet letters or groups of letters (the 280 signs of English) are colored according to how they sound in a given word. Thus, color is used to make it possible to view non-phonetic English as a phonetic language without in any way changing the traditional spellings."

Three classes in Ulster County were part of a tryout group during the last school year. Mrs. Anne Fusick, a first grade teacher at Ontario's Bennett Elementary School at Boiceville, and her class were one of these. Mrs. Fusick's experience indicates that there is value in using a phonetic approach and that further investigation is warranted. Several teachers will continue experimentation and evaluation of the Words in Color method during the 1964-65 school year.

Performing Arts Sets Children's Dramatic Class

The Performing Arts of Woodstock is planning a program of children's classes in creative dramatics for the 1964-65 season. Before it can complete plans, the association needs information regarding the amount of interest in such a program, says Eda Crist, co-chairman of the Education Committee of the Performing Arts.

The committee, which also includes Rita Buoymaster and Sylvia Hutchins, will therefore conduct a survey by means of a questionnaire being issued this week in flyer form.

It presents these details regarding the classes: Two terms, Oct. 1, 1964 to Jan. 31, 1965; and Feb. 1 to June 1, 1965. There are twelve classes in each term, each class lasting one and one-half hours. Classes are held Saturday morning or afternoon in a centrally located place in Woodstock.

For School Children
The classes are open to children of elementary school age, with a nominal tuition charge per term of 12 classes to cover the cost of insurance and classroom rent and maintenance and the instructor, Eda Crist, whose drama classes for the P-TA School were so popular and successful.

Questionnaires are being mailed to parents on the P-TA School list. The remainder will be distributed throughout the area, on counters and bulletin boards.

Each questionnaire has a form attached for convenient reply. The Performing Arts will appreciate the cooperation of all those interested and anticipates an enthusiastic response.

Festival Winds Due at Maverick

The Maverick Summer Concert series will present the Festival Winds, a woodwind quartet, Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Maverick Hall.

The group includes John Solum, flute; Melvin Kaplan, oboe; Robert Listokin, clarinet; and Morris Newman, bassoon. This quartet has appeared in previous years at the Maverick and has been received enthusiastically by Woodstock audiences. Also, they are known for their Town Hall recitals and other concerts in New York.

Melvin Kaplan, oboist with the quartet, has been active in the field of chamber music as a performer as well as an organizer since the age of 18 when he founded the New Art Wind Quartet. A faculty member of Juilliard, Kaplan delighted Maverick audiences this July with his virtuoso oboe playing at the recital of Renaissance Music. Robert Listokin, clarinetist, has made many concert tours in the United States and was heard recently in the second summer Washington Square Chamber Music Concert. John Solum, an accomplished flutist, and Morris Newman, a very skilled bassoon player, will be featured with Melvin Kaplan on the opening work of the program, Vivaldi's Concerto in G Minor for flute, oboe, and bassoon, a work of major importance for chamber ensemble.

Contemporary Pieces
Their program, however, will be dominated by contemporary pieces as few classical composers wrote for an ensemble of this kind. The works of Arthur Berger, Walter Piston, Milhaud, and Ulysses Kaye will be featured at the recital. Beethoven's Duo in C Major for clarinet and bassoon will provide an interesting contrast to the contemporary tone of the concert.

Tickets for this concert are available at the door. Audiences are advised to arrive early in order to secure good seats as no reservations can be made.

On Sunday, Sept. 6 the New York String Trio will perform at the final Maverick Concert of the season.

Gottschalk Art To Be on Display Opening, Aug. 29

An exhibition of the art works of Dan Gottschalk will be held at the 7 Arts Gallery on Mill Hill Road, Woodstock, from Aug. 29 to Sept. 8.

Gottschalk has been in and out of Woodstock since 1950.

Some of his work has recently been on display in the lobby of the Woodstock Playhouse. The exhibition at the 7 Arts will include oil paintings and collages. The public is invited.

Looking at postage stamps for art's sake, not for its value, Gottschalk has used stamps with the theme of clocks. One "The White House Memorial Clock" of President John F. Kennedy won a prize at the Albany Institute of History and Art this year. From the themes "clocks," he carried his stamps into "letters" which take on the interpretation of the sender.

A collage in word from the IBM shows his sense of humor. The painting "Woodstock - Library Fair" has the color, gaiety and intellectual feeling of Woodstock.

Gottschalk has had one-man shows in Miami, New Orleans, San Juan, P. R.; Quebec, Carmel, Calif., and Aspen, Colorado. His paintings are in many collections such as Rusty Draper, Robert Horton, Yancy Derringer and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bergen. Gottschalk has been very active with the Woodstock Artists Association this year.

Play Reading Group Sets August 31 Date

Since its next regular meeting would fall upon the Labor Day holiday, the Performing Arts Play-Reading Group will meet Monday evening, Aug. 31, instead.

This session, under the direction of Doris Toczydlowski, will be devoted to a consideration of Sartre's "No Exit." The play presents some of Jean-Paul Sar-

Closed Session

Board Inquiry Into Alleged Police Brutality Thursday

The Woodstock Town Board will conduct its formal inquiry into alleged local police brutality starting at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at town hall.

All eyewitnesses of the July 12 incident on the Village Green and other persons who may have pertinent information have been invited to testify under oath.

In setting the ground rules for the inquiry, the Town Board announced that only oral depositions would be accepted. Written statements will not be considered, as the board reserves the right to interrogate persons making statements.

Press Is Barred
Although Supervisor Abram F. Molyneux was quoted as saying he was "thinking about" tape-recording the inquiry, it is not known if this will be done. The board, however, has promised to make a public report at one of its future sessions.

The press will be barred from Thursday's inquiry.

The investigation stems from alleged incidents of police brutality involving local officers. A member of the staff of a nearby summer camp claims to have been beaten by one of the officers following his arrest for refusal to obey the officer's command. The officers have denied the charges.

Persons who wish to testify are asked to first register with the town clerk. They will be heard in order of registration. A night session will be conducted, if necessary.

23 OCS Teachers Attend Session Words in Color

Twenty-three teachers of the Ontario Central Schools faculty recently attended a three-day workshop on new Words in Color reading program held at the Duzine School in New Paltz.

The group attended lectures, discussions and demonstration groups each day from 10 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. Demonstrations were held with entering first grade students and illiterate adults.

Dr. Dorothea Hineman, consultant for Encyclopedia Britannica Press and Associate of Dr. Caleb Gattegno, originator of the new method, conducted the workshop. The Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County was the sponsor of the in-service training sessions. Teachers who completed the course were granted two in-service credits.

"Words in Color is a reading program designed for beginning readers, pupils who have been unable to learn to read, and adults who are functionally illiterate or foreign born. . . . The method makes the English language phonetic by printing each of the 47 sounds of English in a distinctive color on wall charts. Alphabet letters or groups of letters (the 280 signs of English) are colored according to how they sound in a given word. Thus, color is used to make it possible to view non-phonetic English as a phonetic language without in any way changing the traditional spellings."

Three Classes
Three classes in Ulster County were part of a tryout group during the last school year. Mrs. Anne Fusick, a first grade teacher at Onteora's Bennett Elementary School at Boiceville, and her class were one of these.

Mrs. Fusick's experience indicates that there is value in using a phonetic approach and that further investigation is warranted. Several teachers will continue experimentation and evaluation of the Words in Color method during the 1964-65 school year.

Onteora faculty members attended the Words in Color workshop included: Marion Blish, Mrs. Marjorie Clark, Mrs. Barbara DeMico, Mrs. Ethel Donaldson, Mrs. Florence Epstein, Mrs. Cora Ford, Mrs. Anna Fusick, Mrs. Joyce Goodrich, Mrs. Mildred Gordon, Mrs. Linda Gray, Mrs. Charlotte Hearn, Edward Hearn, Mrs. Carol Larson, Mrs. Anne Maroney, Mrs. Ann Mayer, Mrs. Frances Mehm, Miss Natalie O'Reilly, Mrs. Kathy Powell, Mrs. Dinah Schlesinger, Mrs. Ruth Simpson, Miss Virginia Slavik, Mrs. Ingrid Sternberg, and Ronald P. Vanni.

Performing Arts Sets Children's Dramatic Class

The Performing Arts of Woodstock is planning a program of children's classes in creative dramatics for the 1964-65 season. Before it can complete plans, the association needs information regarding the amount of interest in such a program, says Eda Crist, co-chairman of the Education Committee of the Performing Arts.

The committee, which also includes Rita Buymaster and Sylvia Hutchins, will therefore conduct a survey by means of a questionnaire being issued this week in flyer form.

It presents these details regarding the classes: Two terms, Oct. 1, 1964 to Jan. 31, 1965; and Feb. 1 to June 1, 1965. There are twelve classes in each term, each class lasting one and one half hours. Classes are held Saturday morning or afternoon in a centrally located place in Woodstock.

For School Children
The classes are open to children of elementary school age, with a nominal tuition charge per term of 12 classes to cover the cost of insurance and classroom rent and maintenance and the instructor, Eda Crist, whose drama classes for the P-TA School were so popular and successful.

Questionnaires are being mailed to parents on the P-TA School list. The remainder will be distributed throughout the area, on counters and bulletin boards.

Each questionnaire has a form attached for convenient reply. The Performing Arts will appreciate the cooperation of all those interested and anticipates an enthusiastic response.

Festival Winds Due at Maverick

The Maverick Summer Concert series will present the Festival Winds, a woodwind quartet, Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Maverick Hall.

The group includes John Solum, flute; Melvin Kaplan, oboe; Robert Listokin, clarinet; and Morris Newman, bassoon.

This quartet has appeared in previous years at the Maverick and has been received enthusiastically by Woodstock audiences. Also, they are known for their Town Hall recitals and other concerts in New York.

Melvin Kaplan, oboist with the quartet, has been active in the field of chamber music as a performer as well as an organizer since the age of 18 when he founded the New Art Wind Quartet. A faculty member of Juillard, Kaplan delighted Maverick audiences this July with his virtuoso oboe playing at the recital of Renaissance Music. Robert Listokin, clarinetist, has made many concert tours in the United States and was heard recently in the second summer Washington Square Chamber Music Concert. John Solum, an accomplished flutist, and Morris Newman, a very skilled bassoon player, will be featured with Melvin Kaplan on the opening work of the program, Vivaldi's Concerto in G Minor for flute, oboe, and bassoon, a work of major importance for chamber ensemble.

Contemporary Pieces

Their program, however, will be dominated by contemporary pieces as few classical composers wrote for an ensemble of this kind. The works of Arthur Berger, Walter Piston, Milhaud, and Ulysses Kaye will be featured at the recital. Beethoven's Duo in C Major for clarinet and bassoon will provide an interesting contrast to the contemporary tone of the concert.

Tickets for this concert are available at the door. Audiences are advised to arrive early in order to secure good seats as no reservations can be made.

On Sunday, Sept. 6 the New York String Trio will perform at the final Maverick Concert of the season.

Gottschalk Art To Be on Display Opening, Aug. 29

An exhibition of the art works of Dan Gottschalk will be held at the 7 Arts Gallery on Mill Hill Road, Woodstock, from Aug. 29 to Sept. 8.

Gottschalk has been in and out of Woodstock since 1950.

Some of his work has recently been on display in the lobby of the Woodstock Playhouse. The exhibition at the 7 Arts will include oil paintings and collages. The public is invited.

Looking at postage stamps for art's sake, not for its value, Gottschalk has used stamps with the theme of clocks. One "The White House Memorial Clock" of President John F. Kennedy won a prize at the Albany Institute of History and Art this year. From the themes "clocks," he carried his stamps into "letters" which take on the interpretation of the sender.

A collage in word from the IBM shows his sense of humor. The painting "Woodstock-Library Fair" has the color, gaiety and intellectual feeling of Woodstock.

Gottschalk has had one-man shows in Miami, New Orleans, San Juan, P. R.; Quebec, Carmel, Calif., and Aspen, Colorado. His paintings are in many collections such as Rusty Draper, Robert Horton, Yancy Derringer, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bergen.

Gottschalk has been very active with the Woodstock Artists Association this year.

Play Reading Group Sets August 31 Date

Since its next regular meeting would fall upon the Labor Day holiday, the Performing Arts Play-Reading Group will meet Monday evening, Aug. 31, instead.

This session, under the direction of Doris Teczydlowski, will be devoted to a consideration of Sartre's "No Exit." The play presents some of Jean-Paul Sar-

Teacher Attends Annual Assembly In Oswego Today

The area man will receive instruction in many areas of current interest to public school employees and administrators. Studies include negotiation practices, reviews of current educational research, strengthening of local organizations and reviews of state services with application to local programs.

The New York State Teachers Association provides speakers, consultants, planned programs and workshops for the local groups.

Speedy Lizard

The basilisk is a small South American lizard which can dash across the surface of a stream in a semi-erect position propelled by rapid strokes of its hind limbs, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

tre's existential philosophy through the conversation of three characters, recently dead, in a Second Empire livingroom in Hell; it provokes thought and stimulates spirited discussion.

Anyone interested in the evening is cordially invited to attend. The meeting begins at 8 p. m. in the Goddard Studio at 56 Glasco Turnpike.

Sass-Salzman Maverick Hall Music Praised

There was an unusually beautiful concert at the Maverick Hall in Woodstock on Sunday afternoon. Theodore Salzman, cellist, and Ilse Sass, pianist, gave a small but responsive audience an inspiring musical experience through their performance of works by Beethoven, Boccherini and Shostakovich.

One must applaud the opening of the program with the magnificent Sonata in A Major, Op. 69, by Beethoven (rather than the previously announced Boccherini). In meeting the exacting demands of this large work the musicians were able to give immediate evidence of superb technical proficiency and keen musical insight which set the standard for the whole concert.

Whether listening to the beautiful pizzicato on the lower strings of the cello, the clear passage work in the upper register of the piano, singing melodic lines or intricate and irregular rhythmic patterns, one was quickly conscious of a special quality of the separate instruments and of their playing together.

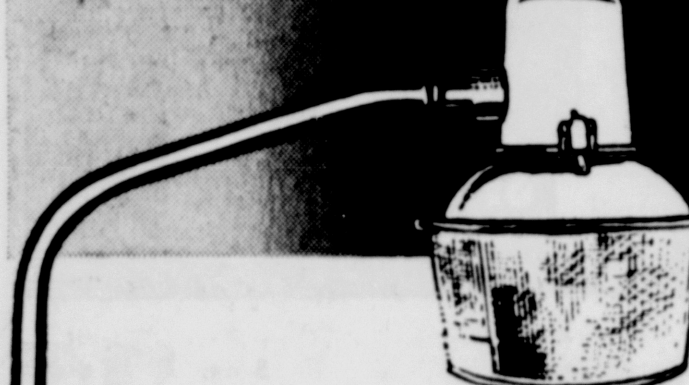

This listener could not help associating the particular quality of tone achieved by Salzman with the unique sound of the cello of Pablo Casals. There was no attempt at imitation, but the association was particularly interesting in view of the later discovered brief studies of Salzman with the great master. The special tone of the cello was greatly enhanced by the clear and sensitive playing of Miss Sass, who supported and balanced, but never dominated her fellow artist.

Excellent Boccherini
The playing of the Boccherini Sonata in A Major was also excellent and following it Salzman announced the performance of an additional small work by Beethoven, which was not on the program. Salzman told the story of a rich merchant who particularly admired the music of Beethoven. He played the mandoline, and as there was little written for the instrument he asked Beethoven to write a work for him for which he would pay the composer 100 gold pieces. The delightful, simple Sonatine which Salzman and Miss Sass played — in an arrangement for cello and piano — was the result.

The final work was the Sonata in F Major, Op. 40, by Dmitri Shostakovich. Like the opening Beethoven, this was a demanding piece on a larger scale which called for the full range of technical skill and musical sensitivity. The duo had both at its command. Salzman's beautiful phrasing was particularly noticeable in the Largo movement, and one delighted in the short motives which were skillfully tossed between the piano and cello in the last, Allegretto movement. On the whole, this was a very exciting concert which one can only wish might have been more widely heard. . . . NATALIE RAIGORODSKY."

Bureau Director Since 1937

Prison Reformer Retires On Seventieth Birthday

By JOSEPH E. MOHRBAT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-five years of government service and this week for James V. Bennett, renowned penologist and director of the Bureau of Prisons — a post he has held since 1937.

The gentle, blue-eyed reformer who changed the shape of the American prison system while he strove to change the hearts of its inmates retires Friday on his 70th birthday. He takes with him the gratitude of hundreds of convicts who found in Bennett more a humanitarian than a custodian. "I think I can say modestly that I'm leaving the federal prison system in as good condition as it's ever been," Bennett said.

Prisoners Have Jobs

"We've overcome a lot of problems. We've got a good program. Every prisoner who wants a job has a job. We're running economically, and the Federal Prison Industries is turning out a good profit." Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has said Bennett will continue to be a consultant to the Bureau of Prisons under its new director, Myrl E. Alexander, a former assistant director. The son of a minister, Bennett was born Aug. 28, 1894 in Silver Creek, N.Y., and was graduated from Brown University in 1918.

Drafted Reform Bill

Working with a congressional investigation of federal prisons in 1929, he drafted the reform legislation which set up the Bureau of Prisons as a branch of the Justice Department. He was named assistant director when the bureau was established in 1930.

Since that time, the federal prison system has grown from 5 installations to 31 with a 22,000 population, 6,000 employees and an annual budget of $70 million.

He instituted Federal Prison Industries, Inc., an inmate-staffed organization which yielded sales of $40 million last year alone. He had charge of that until he became director of the Bureau of Prisons in 1937.

"No man is ever really satisfied with the job he's done," Bennett said. "There are always new things to do. But I leave with no regrets."

Mrs. Kennedy Misses Ted at Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Joan Kennedy says she has mixed emotions about her membership in the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

"I am very honored to be part of the delegation," she said upon her arrival at Atlantic City Tuesday, "but I wish my husband, Ted, were with me."

Mrs. Kennedy's husband, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, is hospitalized with a broken back, suffered in a plane crash last June.

Priest Considers English Mass No Cause for Worry

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Will the Roman Catholic still feel at home at a Mass substantially different from any he has known?

And the priest, who all his adult life has intoned the ancient Latin rites of the Church — will he feel comfortable saying most of them in English?

"It may be a little complicated getting used to something new," says the Rev. Frederick R. McManus of Washington, D.C., who was the first to celebrate the English Mass that will come to all U.S. Roman Catholics Nov. 29.

Each time there is something different, there are those who say "it will disturb many people, but it doesn't," he said.

Father McManus, associate professor in the School of Canon Law at the Catholic University of America, celebrated the Mass Monday as the 25th annual liturgical conference opened.

More than half the Mass was in English, a change brought by permission of the Second Vatican Council concluded last December in Rome. The purpose of this, and future changes, is to give the churchgoer a better understanding of the service and a greater sense of participation.

The 10,000 or more priests and nuns attending the liturgical meeting were introduced to another innovation, the use of many more hymns than the Catholic has been used to.

Time Budget Keeping Truman From Parley

Thus did Harry S. Truman explain why he isn't attending the Democratic National Convention this year.

Asked at a news conference how he felt, the 80-year-old former president replied, "Oh, very well. I'm just getting old. That's all."

McCarthy Tells LBJ Humphrey Is Best Man

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy in effect pulled out of the Democratic vice presidential contest today in favor of his fellow Minnesotan, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. In a telegram to President Johnson, McCarthy did not specifically say he was out of the race, but he did "recommend" for your primary consideration his Senate colleague.

He said Humphrey appears to him to fit the qualifications Johnson has set up for a desirable running mate.

Pope Paul Warns Peace Principles May Be Crumbling

CASTEL GARDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI warned today that "some of those basic principles on which peace must be founded are crumbling."

In an impassioned appeal against an arms race, the Pontiff begged men to remember what caused two devastating world wars, and deplored what he called a return to the "illusory" peace that can only be based on the terrifying power of extremely homicidal weapons.

Pope Paul said the world is seeing a rebirth of perilous concepts, that the "concept of the sacred and inviolable character of human life" has been obscured.

"Men of good will, listen to our humble words," the Pontiff implored.

The Pope spoke to his weekly general audience at his summer residence south of Rome.

Pope Paul decried "subversive propaganda and revolutionary disorders," and said that even pacifist statements are misused to promote social and political contrasts. This may have been a reference to pro-Communist "peace movements."

Pope Paul said his thoughts were stirred by the current anniversary commemorations of the start of World Wars I and II. He expressed concern at the "acute disagreements, already stained with blood and pregnant with menacing omens existing today between various countries."

May Freeze Men, Revive Them Later Someday in Future

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pioneer in kidney transplants forecast today that victims of organic ailments may eventually be frozen in suspended animation and later returned to life when replacement organs are available.

Dr. Richard Lillehei of the University of Minnesota said that might be possible when top statesmen, scientists, humanitarians, athletes and other outstanding persons die from diseased hearts or other organs.

He said such a concept would raise ethical questions as to who should be so preserved, but he expressed a belief such problems might be worked out.

He also envisioned the day when space voyagers could be kept in controlled cold storage in their spacecrafts for trips beyond the solar system lasting as long as 300 years.

He said that might be possible not long after the turn of the century.

It's conceivable, he said, that such deep-frozen astronauts could be so preserved that their bodies would not age, and could be automatically thawed out, and be ready for exploration when they reached their interstellar objective.

He and a number of associates told about the developments in technical reports to the first annual meeting of the Society for Cryobiology, an organization devoted to studying the preservative effects of applying extreme cold to living tissues.

Lillehei in an interview said recent advances have been made at the University of Minnesota in taking kidneys from human corpses, preserving them for up to 11 hours after the patient's death at temperatures just above freezing, and then transplanting them into patients facing death from kidney ailments.

Market Reports Hike in Prices In Consumer Meat

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Scattered reports of increases in consumer meat prices dotted the picture today in the National Farmers Organization livestock market boycott.

The NFO drive to withhold animals from market in an effort to get higher prices from processors was in its seventh full day.

Wholesale and retail outlets in cities of the Midwest and the East say they are feeling the effect and have raised prices.

Choice cuts of beef were raised four or five cents a pound in parts of Ohio and at Louisville, Ky.

A meat packer at Baltimore predicted that housewives will be paying 12 to 15 cents more a pound for meat this weekend or early next week.

Stores at Boston and Portland, Maine, said they expect a boost in prices later in the week.

NFO headquarters at Corning, Iowa, claimed that increasing retail prices is unwarranted and that some dealers "are taking advantage of the situation."

Supplies of hogs going through the Chicago Terminal Market forced upward Tuesday and forced a drop of 50 cents per hundredweight from Monday's high of $20 a hundred.

Chicago listed receipts of 10,000 hogs, highest since Jan. 5. Receipts also were up at other

NYC Will Appeal From Order on $1.50 Wage

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City will appeal from a court ruling that the recently enacted local $1.50-an-hour minimum wage law is unconstitutional.

Corporation Counsel Leo Larkin, the city's top legal officer, said Tuesday night he will appeal from the ruling that the state Legislature has jurisdiction in the "entire field of minimum wage legislation" in the state.

State Supreme Court Justice Sidney A. Fine issued the decision Tuesday in a suit filed by the Wholesale Laundry Board of Trade and eight commercial laundries.

The new local law, signed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner on July 15, was to have gone into effect on Oct. 1.

The state minimum wage is now $1.15. On Oct. 15 it will go to $1.25 an hour.

On the retail side, one store at Columbus, Ohio, jumped the cost of a pound of bacon from 39 to 70 cents a pound. But at Chicago, the Jewel, National and Kroger chains said they had not raised meat prices.

Priest Considers English Mass No Cause for Worry

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Will the Roman Catholic still feel at home at a Mass substantially different from any he has known?

And the priest, who all his adult life has intoned the ancient Latin rites of the Church — will he feel comfortable saying most of them in English?

It may be a little complicated getting used to something new, says the Rev. Frederick R. McManus of Washington, D.C., who was the first to celebrate the English Mass that will come to all U.S. Roman Catholics Nov. 29.

"Each time there is something different, there are those who say 'it will disturb many people, but it doesn't,' he said.

Father McManus, associate professor in the School of Canon Law at the Catholic University of America, celebrated the Mass Monday as the 25th annual liturgical conference opened.

More than half the Mass was in English, a change brought by permission of the Second Vatican Council concluded last December in Rome. The purpose of this, and future changes, is to give the churchgoer a better understanding of the service and a greater sense of participation.

The 10,000 or more priests and nuns attending the liturgical meeting were introduced to another innovation, the use of many more hymns than the Catholic has been used to.

May Freeze Men, Revive Them Later Someday in Future

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pioneer in kidney transplants forecast today that victims of organic ailments may eventually be frozen in suspended animation and later returned to life when replacement organs are available.

Dr. Richard Lillehei of the University of Minnesota said that might be possible when top scientists, humanitarians, athletes and other outstanding persons die from diseased hearts or other organs.

He said such a concept would raise ethical questions as to who should be so preserved, but expressed a belief such problems might be worked out.

He also envisioned the day when space voyagers could be kept in controlled cold storage in their spacecrafts for trips beyond the solar system lasting as long as 300 years.

He said that might be possible not long after the turn of the century.

It's conceivable, he said, that such deep-frozen astronauts could be so preserved that their bodies would not age, and could be automatically thawed out, and be ready for exploration when they reached their interstellar objective.

He and a number of associates told about the developments in technical reports to the first annual meeting of the Society for Cryobiology, an organization devoted to studying the preservative effects of applying extreme cold to living tissues.

Lillehei in an interview said recent advances have been made at the University of Minnesota in taking kidneys from human corpses, preserving them for up to 11 hours after the patient's death at temperatures just above freezing, and then transplanting them into patients facing death from kidney ailments.

Time Budget Keeping Truman From Parley

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — "I am having to budget my time very carefully in what time may yet be available to me to do the many things that still remain to be done."

Thus did Harry S. Truman explain why he isn't attending the Democratic National Convention this year.

Sentencing Postponed

Malcolm Lyons Sr., 54, of RD 4, Kingston, charged Tuesday with leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license, pleaded guilty in city court today, and sentencing was put over to Sept. 2 to permit time for presentencing investigation. Police charge that a car driven by Lyons struck two cars in the Park Diner parking lot and damaged a side of the diner early Monday. The charges were lodged after Lyons appeared at police headquarters Tuesday afternoon. The car involved, police said, is owned by Malcolm Lyons Jr., of 25 Liberty Street, Danbury, Conn. Lyons was released in the custody of his son pending his appearance in court again Sept. 2.

McCarthy Tells LBJ Humphrey Is Best Man

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy in effect pulled out of the Democratic vice presidential contest today in favor of his fellow Minnesotan, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

In a telegram to President Johnson, McCarthy did not specifically say he was out of the race, but he did "recommend" for your primary consideration his Senate colleague.

He said Humphrey appears to him to fit the qualifications Johnson has set up for a desirable running mate.

Pope Paul Warns Peace Principles May Be Crumbling

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI warned today that "some of those basic principles on which peace must be founded are crumbling."

In an impassioned appeal against an arms race, the Pontiff begged men to remember what caused two devastating world wars, and deplored what he called a return to the "illusory" concept that peace can only be based on the terrifying power of extremely homicidal weapons.

Pope Paul said the world is seeing a rebirth of perilous concepts, that the "concept of the sacred and inviolable character of human life" has been obscured.

"Men of good will, listen to our humble words," the Pontiff implored.

The Pope spoke to his weekly general audience at his summer residence south of Rome.

Pope Paul decried "subversive propaganda and revolutionary disorders," and said that even pacifist statements are misused to promote social and political contrasts. This may have been a reference to pro-Communist "peace movements."

Pope Paul said his thoughts were stirred by the current anniversary commemorations of the start of World Wars I and II. He expressed concern at the "acute disagreements, already stained with blood and pregnant with menacing omens existing today," between various countries.

Child-Labor Act Intends to Keep Pupils in Schools

"The uneducated of today are the unemployed of tomorrow," regional director Frank B. Mercurio of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Public Contracts Divisions pointed out in reminding employers of the child-labor standards provided in the Fair Labor Standards Act.

"These standards are not intended to keep young people from working," he said, "but are designed to give them an opportunity to get an education in this age of automation. The man who has left high school before graduation will earn an average of $50,000 less during his working lifetime than the high school graduate."

Mercurio urged employers to encourage boys and girls with summer jobs to go back to school to equip themselves for a useful and satisfying life. Part-time employment outside school hours is permitted under the Act for 14- and 15-year-olds in a variety of jobs, such as sales, office or clerical work. Minors 16 and over may be employed in any occupation other than those found and declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. An 18-year age minimum applies to hazardous occupations such as driver or driver's helper on a motor vehicle, elevator operator, logger or sawmill operator, operator of certain powerdriven machinery and some excavation work.

Mercurio said that employers can protect themselves against unintentional violations of the child-labor provisions by obtaining and keeping on file an age certificate for each minor employee, showing him to be the legal age for the occupation in which he is working.

Additional information may be obtained from the regional office at 341 Ninth Avenue, New York. State labor and school officials will provide information about the State child-labor laws.

Oneonta Chief Thinks Gas Fumes Are Sealed Off

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP)—City officials hope they have smelled the last of an extensive gasoline leak underground that forced the closing of an Episcopal church for about a month.

After more than seven weeks of work, Fire Chief Kenneth Hooks reported Tuesday that the gasoline and its explosive fumes seemed to have dissipated.

"As far as I am concerned, the source has been sealed off," said Hooks.

But he would not elaborate on his statement to explain what he thought had been the "source."

There are five gasoline stations within a block of the St. James Episcopal Church, which was closed after dangerous fumes filled the building during the July 5 Sunday services.

During this time, one of the gas stations replaced all three of its tanks, a move the owner said was planned weeks before. One of the old tanks was tested by air pressure and found in good condition. There have been no reports on tests of the other two.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Some 45 years ago, this October, Ulster County extended a hearty welcome to soldiers and sailors of World War I. Little did they know then that there would be a World War II. A Welcome Home Arch was erected in front of the city hall. There had been one built for the soldiers who came home from the Spanish War, but no Welcome Arch for those who came home from World War II.

For complete details, I refer the readers to the Kingston Daily Freeman of Wednesday, Oct. 1, 1919.

Here are some of the side-lights of that Welcome Home Parade for World War I boys, as taken from the newspaper:

"Practically every musical organization in the parade had been represented in the World War I, and each organization had at least two or more men wearing their country's uniform. The Bailey Fife and Drum Corps had probably the largest representation of service men, outside of the Tenth Regiment Band which was composed entirely of veterans.

It further read: Early in the morning the big auto truck of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, loaded with noise makers, passed through the city streets, and the noise makers were distributed to the gay and happy throng which had turned out for the welcome home of the local boys.

Another item: A reminder of the days over there was the "K of C hut" on wheels from which was distributed free cigarettes and chocolate to the boys in the service. This thoughtful act on the part of the local Knights was appreciated by the men. As the parade passed by Broadway, overhead sailed the airplane driven by

Lieut. Tate. As it sailed by it reminded the overseas boys of the times, in the trenches when a hostile plan went sweeping by.

It was said by many of the men, that since they came home they had gained so much weight that they could hardly get into their uniforms. Some were afraid they would split before the parade was over. It was said, that thousands from all over the county came to Kingston for the parade. They came by train, auto, wagon and on foot. The 51st Pioneers Band got a big hand. The sad moments when large service flags with rows of gold stars passed by, and the crowds became quiet. The price of war is loss of life. The wounded were driven in private cars.

The armory on Broadway was filled to the limit, with not room enough for all the soldiers and sailors to dine so a hundred or more were sent to the up-town hotels for dinner. Marching with the Spanish-American War Veterans, was Harry Goldsworthy in uniform, he having served in the last war in the tank corps.

I wish I could cover all the interesting events of this parade, for instance the 51st Pioneer Band, which Sergeant Harry Maisenhelder got together, being soldier boys which played overseas for Gen. Pershing, Field Marshal Haig and other prominent war officers in France, were greeted with applause all along the line. When the parade passed the city hall, Mullers Municipal Band played the march song, "The Yankee Soldiers in France," just published by George Gminder, of Kingston, the writer of the lyric. The while Lieut. Tate made several circles around the center in his aeroplane, at times coming very low. Then he proceeded to the lower section of the city to fly over the parade, which kept the crowd very busy to look up at the strange aeroplane and the marchers, and parade, back in 1919.

For complete details, I refer the readers to the Kingston Daily Freeman of Wednesday, Oct. 1, 1919.

Here are some of the side-lights of that Welcome Home Parade for World War I boys, as taken from the newspaper:

"Practically every musical organization in the parade had been represented in the World War I, and each organization had at least two or more men wearing their country's uniform. The Bailey Fife and Drum Corps had probably the largest representation of service men, outside of the Tenth Regiment Band which was composed entirely of veterans.

It further read: Early in the morning the big auto truck of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, loaded with noise makers, passed through the city streets, and the noise makers were distributed to the gay and happy troops which had turned out for the welcome home of the local boys.

Another item: A reminder of the days over there was the "K of C hut" on wheels from which was distributed free cigarettes and chocolate to the boys in the service. This thoughtful act on the part of the local Knights was appreciated by the men. As the parade passed up Broadway, overhead sailed the airplane driven by

Lieut. Tate. As it sailed by it reminded the overseas boys of the times, in the trenches when a hostile plan went sweeping by.

It was said by many of the men, that since they came home they had gained so much weight that they could hardly get into their uniforms. Some were afraid they would split before the parade was over. It was said, that thousands from all over the county came to Kingston for the parade. They came by train, auto, wagon and on foot. The 51st Pioneers Band got a big hand. The sad moments when large service flags with rows of gold stars passed by, and the crowds became quiet. The price of war is loss of life. The wounded were driven in private cars.

The armory on Broadway was filled to the limit, with not room enough for all the soldiers and sailors to dine so a hundred or more were sent to the up-town hotels for dinner. Marching with the Spanish-American War Veterans, was Harry Goldsworthy in uniform, he having served in the last war in the tank corps.

I wish I could cover all the interesting events of this parade, for instance the 51st Pioneer Band, which Sergeant Harry Maisenhelder got together, being soldier boys which played overseas for Gen. Pershing, Field Marshal Haig and other prominent war officers in France, were greeted with applause all along the line. When the parade passed the city hall, Mullers Municipal Band played the march song, "The Yankee Soldiers in France," just published by George Gminder, of Kingston, the writer of the lyric. The while Lieut. Tate made several circles around the center in his aeroplane, at times coming very low. Then he proceeded to the lower section of the city to fly over the parade, which kept the crowd very busy to look up at the strange aeroplane and the marchers, and parade, back in 1919.

Oneonta Chief Thinks Gas Fumes Are Sealed Off

ONEONTA, N. Y. (AP)—City officials hope they have smelled the last of an extensive gasoline leak underground that forced the closing of an Episcopal church for about a month.

After more than seven weeks of work, Fire Chief Kenneth Hooks reported Tuesday that the gasoline and its explosive fumes seemed to have dissipated.

"As far as I am concerned, the source has been sealed off," said Hooks.

But he would not elaborate on his statement to explain what he thought had been the "source."

There are five gasoline stations within a block of the St. James Episcopal Church, which was closed after dangerous fumes filled the building during the July 5 Sunday services.

During this time, one of the gas stations replaced all three of its tanks, a move the owner said was planned weeks before. One of the old tanks was tested by air pressure and found in good condition. There have been no reports on tests of the other two.

Hong Kong's crowded harbor holds some 138,000 people who live on sampans and junks. They long have been considered a group apart. Known as the Tankas, Chinese law for centuries forbade them to settle ashore, marry landowners or work for the government.

Dear Abby . . .

Another "Cold" War!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who keeps asking her husband, age 64, when he is going to retire? The husband is a successful businessman who enjoys being in business, is in good health, and never thinks about retiring until his wife brings it up.

Also, what would you think if this wife took out TWO additional policies on her husband's life while she was his bookkeeper and was authorized to sign his check? (This wasn't discovered by the husband until several years later.) This same wife reads every magazine article she can find on things a widow should know. She claims she is only being "realistic." I would like your opinion.

SOMEBODY'S HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Your wife's waging a war of nerves—and winning! Relax, or you'll accommodate her sooner than you both think.

DEAR ABBY: I am mad! I just returned from a friend's house and she slyly accused me of having amorous feelings about my doctor! What's with people? They think the milkman, postman, salesman and repair men are all the secret lovers of every woman who looks at them sideways. Some people can't forget about sex for one minute! Why can't people be motivated by art, music, world peace or something else?

"VIVA LA SENSE" IN FT. WAYNE

DEAR VIVA: Some people ARE! What's with you?

DEAR ABBY: I enjoyed the letter in your column from a pair of identical twins who said they didn't like to be called "Twin" or "Twinny," and they were disgusted with people who asked, "Are you twins?" That last complaint is so familiar to me because I have an identical twin brother, and when we were young we were dressed alike, and still people would ask, "Are you twins?" My mother told us that when we were about three years old she was walking down the street with one of us on each side of her, when a strange woman stopped us and asked my brother, "Are you brothers?" And he replied, "No' ma'am, we're sisters."

Roundabout Return

S.T. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Richard L. Smith of nearby Gulfport got his refund from the collector of Internal Revenue by a roundabout route. Smith received it from Cecil A.

Ball of Bartow, Fla. Ball said Smith's check was stuck to his refund check. "I thought of sending it back to the tax office," Ball wrote, "but decided that you might be as anxious to get your check as I was mine, so I am mailing it to you direct."

Tiny Islets

Saint Paul's Rocks are a group of tiny islets rising out of the Atlantic Ocean 340 miles from South America and one degree north of the equator, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The California condor, now in danger of total extinction, has a wing spread of as much as ten feet and often soars at altitudes of more than 12,000 feet. Condors feed on carrion, but may attack sheep, goats and deer. They are among the world's largest birds of flight.

Two Bands Slated To Play Tonight At Forsyth Dance

The Recreation Department with the assistance and cooperation of Local 215 of the American Federation of Musicians will present a rock and roll extravaganza at Forsyth Park today, 8 to 11 p. m.

Music for the special evening is being provided by Local 215 as part of the transcription fund. Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The news conference was scheduled for 7:15 p.m., and at precisely 7:15 the Beatles walked through the door.

A couple hundred newsmen crowded onto the floor of the Cinnamon Cider, a San Fernando Valley night club for teenagers, while a hundred or more young girls stood atop platforms and booths on the periphery. One of these was a close relative, blonde and 16, posing as my assistant.

The Beatles, smoking cigarettes and looking world-weary, disappeared in a mass of photographers.

"George has the prettiest hair," observed my assistant.

Time on Songs

After minutes of shooting, the photographers were admonished to sit down so the news conference could start. It was more minutes before this was accomplished. Then the questions began.

How long does it take Beatles John and Paul to write their songs?

"It depends. Sometimes an hour, sometimes as long as two days. 'A Hard Day's Night' was written overnight because the producer said he wanted a title tune in a hurry."

What, Me Worry?

Do they ever worry about their safety?

"No, because the fans have never gotten to us. We won't be concerned until they trample us to the floor. The only time we really worry is when protection is inadequate, as in New Zealand, where there were three policemen to handle a crowd of 8,000."

What about reports they were crazy about Ann-Margret?

"None of us know her. None of us, including Ringo, has even talked to her on the telephone. It must have been the work of her press agent."

Like Liverpool

Is Beatle John writing another book?

"Yes."

What is the nicest place they've ever played?

"Liverpool."

The conference ended with the announcement of presentations on the platform: "George will accept the gold records, John and Paul will take the trophies from the fan clubs, and Ringo will receive the key to California."

On the way out my assistant noticed an ecstatic young girl clutching a glass of soft drink to her bosom. "It was Paul's," she murmured.

3 Klansmen Are Indicted in Penn Shotgun Slaying

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Three men identified by the FBI as Ku Klux Klansmen have been indicted on charges of murder in the shotgun slaying of a Negro educator from Washington, D.C.

Prosecutor Cleve B. Johnson said the cases would be called for trial Monday.

Indicted by the Madison County grand jury Tuesday were James S. Lackey, 28; Joseph Howard Sims, 41; and Cecil William Myers, 25, all of Athens, Ga.

They were charged with slaying Lemuel Penn, 43, on a country road near Colbert July 11. Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve, was returning to Washington from summer training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Iranian health faddists caked their bodies with a thick, strong-smelling mud from Lawe Urmia. The mud is considered a remedy for arthritis, rheumatism and other ailments.

Years of Fighting Has Made Cyprus a Cauldron of Fear

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) —

Years of battle and bushwhacking between Turk and Greek have turned this ruggedly beautiful island into a threatening cauldron of hate and fear.

The 400,000 Greeks and 100,000 Turks on Cyprus think of little else. They are bundles of sensitive, self-centered nerves.

Facing isolation, military defeat and possible starvation, the Turkish Cypriot thinks only of survival. Stochastically, he hopes the Turkish government in Ankara will save him. He is willing to listen to Ankara's advice.

The Greek Cypriot is more complicated.

Dreams of Union

He dreams of a union with Greece which will somehow weave together a tapestry of conflicting desires. He wants union with "the motherland" but no part of the North Atlantic Alliance, which Greece values. He wants union, but no lessening of the heady role now played by his tiny island.

There is a genuine fear among responsible diplomats that the volatile Greek Cypriots — in the absence of a settlement — may make of their island a Mediterranean Cuba.

No Greek Cypriot voice is raised publicly to point out the contradiction in President Makarios, a bearded Greek Orthodox archbishop, asking for military aid from the jolly atheist Nikita Khrushchev.

It isn't thought the least odd, either, when the Greek high commissioner in London says a third world war would be preferable to making concessions to Turkey.

The island has taken on a seemingly permanent embattled character since practical civil war broke out in December.

Its present difficulties date from a warm August day in London four years ago. With restrained enthusiasm, Britain, Turkey and Greece reached an agreement granting the former British colony independence — of a sort. Turkey and Greece would maintain troops on the island, the Turkish minority would have a veto over certain legislation and a constitution wrapped it all up neatly.

Gen. George Grivas, whose Greek Cypriot guerrillas had harassed the British for years, went home in bitterness and disgust, charging Makarios with treason for accepting less than full union with Greece — enosis is the Greek word for it.

Grudgingly accepting the restraint placed on him, Makarios almost immediately again raised the banner of enosis and unwaveringly kept it high. Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, a Turk who was once the archbishop's personal friend, now rails at him bitterly and says Makarios never intended to make independence work.

The inevitable blowup came when Makarios' determination to change the constitution, thus permitting a "self determination" vote for union with Greece, precipitated the present civil war.

Plans Disclosed For Moon Vehicle

SEATTLE (AP)—Plans for a six-wheeled vehicle capable of taking two astronauts for a 14-day, 250-mile jaunt on the surface of the moon were disclosed Tuesday by the Boeing Co.

Boeing, which is heading a nine-month study for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on payloads for the Apollo logistics support system, calls the moon vehicle Mo-lab, short for mobile laboratory. The vehicle would be sent to the moon aboard an Apollo spacecraft. If radio signals showed it landed safely, the astronauts would follow in another Apollo.

The wheels of the vehicle would be five or six feet in diameter, wire-wrapped and covered with steel mesh to cope with jagged rubble on the moon's surface.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The news conference was scheduled for 7:15 p.m., and at precisely 7:15 the Beatles walked through the door.

A couple hundred newsmen crowded onto the floor of the Cinnamon Cider, a San Fernando Valley night club for teen-agers, while a hundred or more young girls stood atop platforms and booths on the periphery. One of these was a close relative, blonde and 16, posing as my assistant.

The Beatles, smoking cigarettes and looking world-weary, disappeared in a mass of photographers.

"George has the prettiest hair," observed my assistant.

Time on Songs
After minutes of shooting, the photographers were admonished to sit down so the news conference could start. It was more minutes before this was accomplished. Then the questions began.

How long does it take Beatles John and Paul to write their songs?

"It depends. Sometimes an hour, sometimes as long as two days. 'A Hard Day's Night' was written overnight because the producer said he wanted a title tune in a hurry."

What, Me Worry?
Do they ever worry about their safety?

"No, because the fans have never gotten to us. We won't be concerned until they trample us to the floor. The only time we really worry is when protection is inadequate, as in New Zealand, where there were three policemen to handle a crowd of 8,000."

What about reports they were crazy about Ann-Margret?

"None of us know her. None of us, including Ringo, has even talked to her on the telephone. It must have been the work of her press agent."

Like Liverpool
Is Beatle John writing another book?

"Yes."
What is the nicest place they've ever played?

"Liverpool."

The conference ended with the announcement of presentations on the platform: "George will accept the gold records, John and Paul will take the trophies from the fan clubs, and Ringo will receive the key to California."

On the way out my assistant noticed an ecstatic young girl clutching a glass of soft drink to her bosom. "It was Paul's," she murmured.

ENVOY — Margaret Joy Tibbitts, 46, a career foreign service officer, is the new U.S. ambassador to Norway. She replaced Clifton R. Wharton in the Scandinavian post.

Genesee Wildlife Refuge Chosen as Camp for Work

MEDINA, N.Y. (AP)—A national wildlife refuge near this Genesee County community will become a refuge from poverty for 100 men by November.

The refuge has been chosen by the U.S. Department of Interior to serve as New York State's only conservation camp in President Johnson's war on poverty.

The men, between the ages of 16 and 22, will come from underprivileged families or neighborhoods in New York and New England.

The Inyoquins National Wildlife Refuge, as one of 75 similar camps planned throughout the United States by the Interior Department, will house high school graduates and functional illiterates alike in huge prefabricated building complexes.

Proposed projects include timber and brush clearing, fencing, construction of a parking area and repairing and maintaining equipment on the 10,800-acre refuge.

The camp will offer workers basic literacy education to make illiterates employable and job training plus pay them $50 a month and another $50 when they leave. A 14-member staff will run it.

Expect Shockey Murder Case to Go to Jury Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The prosecution's case against Herbert Shockey, on trial for murder in the slaying of a Sherrill, N.Y., couple, was expected to go to the jury today.

Testimony was concluded Tuesday in the first-degree murder trial, now in its third week, and final arguments were scheduled today, with the case to go to the jury of nine women and three men.

Shockey faces a possible death sentence if convicted. The defense argues that the 30-year-old Shockey, an ex-convict, should be found innocent—by reason of insanity—of the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. John Bertella. Their bodies were found Feb. 24 in the Superstition Mountain region near Apache Junction, Ariz.

There was conflicting testimony during the closing days of the trial by defense and prosecution psychiatrists, who disagreed whether Shockey was deranged or pretending to be insane.

Police said Shockey killed the Bertellas in order to gain possession of their pickup camper-truck.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—As the question of a possible auto strike overhung Wall Street, a dull stock market headed lower again early this afternoon.

Averages also were depressed by a number of stocks selling ex dividend. Some of the high flyers which stumbled Tuesday made a selective recovery but it was only partial.

Motors and steels were narrowly mixed. Rails, aerospace issues, airlines, building materials, drugs and nonferrous metals were generally lower. Utilities were ahead on balance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 313.6 with industrials unchanged, rails off .3 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.87 at 830.33 and Standard & Poor's 50-stock index at noon was off .12 at 81.32.

Du Pont sank more than a point, General Electric a point. New York Central lost a full point and Pennsylvania Railroad a fraction as their merger seemed to face delay.

General Motors lost a fraction. Ford eased. Chrysler and American Motors gained fractions. U.S. Steel was a fractional loser while Jones & Laughlin gained a fraction.

Pan American was fractionally lower and Sperry Rand was off a fraction.

Houston Battles Mosquito to Halt Sleeping Sickness

By ED STAATS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houstonians by the thousands battled the encephalitis-carrying mosquito and its breeding places today as the number of suspected cases of the sleeping sickness rose to 216.

Free insecticide was doled out by the city and residents armed themselves for the war with the female culex mosquito, now blamed for 18 deaths the past 30 days.

Residents in this city of one million flocked to fire stations for the spray chemicals they hoped would protect them from the mosquitoes, which carry the disease, commonly called sleeping sickness.

Firemen at 55 fire stations mixed the insecticide and citizens patiently waited for it, carrying plastic jars, jugs, buckets, plastic bottles and even empty paint cans.

Many parents said they refused to let their children play outside after dark and stayed home evenings.

A helicopter and 40 trucks were spraying and fogging ditches and bayous—prime mosquito breeding places.

Dr. C. A. Pigford, city health director, said the epidemic first recognized as such last Thursday—is probably at its peak.

He warned, however, recent rains could increase the swarms of mosquitoes and cause an upsurge in cases a week or 10 days from now.

rose that the Communist Viet Cong may take advantage of the crisis by attacking the capital itself. Intelligence reports indicate that the Communists may have more than 20,000 troops around Saigon.

He's Confident

Diplomats described 37-year-old Khanh as confident he could weather the storm.

The 60 generals and colonels of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed armed forces met under heavy guard at general staff headquarters near Saigon Airport.

Among them was Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the popular Buddhist who directed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem last November. Minh was ousted as figurehead chief of state in Khanh's Aug. 16 shake-up, which precipitated the current crisis.

Minh did not attend the junta session 10 days ago when Khanh moved up from premier to president and received dictatorial powers under the new constitution.

Also present today were four generals—including three suspected of favoring neutralization of South Viet Nam—who were placed under house arrest after Khanh seized power last Jan. 30.

Although student leaders in Saigon promised to accept the decision of the military revolutionary council, turmoil continued in at least two cities.

Reports from Da Nang, a coastal city 380 miles north of the capital, told of heavy firing around the government communications center. The center was evacuated.

Troops reportedly fired on demonstrators for the first time in three days of antigovernment, anti-Catholic and anti-American rioting in Da Nang, the reports said. At least 11 persons have been killed.

The riots began Monday when 1,000 Buddhists stoned a U.S. enlisted men's barracks 10 yards from the Catholic village. The Americans fired shots into the air to ward off the rioters.

Over-sized Shoe

PARK FOREST, Ill. (AP)—A policeman took one look at a 14-year-old boy Tuesday and concluded he was wearing a shoe stolen 12 days ago from a local department store.

The shoe, which the youth was wearing over his regular shoe, was a display model—size 25D, weighed three pounds, was 20 inches long and had a sole ¾ inch thick. He said another boy gave it to him.

Longo Succeeds Togliatti

ROME (AP)—Luigi Longo, a veteran Communist leader, today formally succeeded the late Palmiro Togliatti as secretary-general of the Italian Communist party.

As expected, the party elected Longo at a closed meeting on the morning after Togliatti's funeral.

Togliatti died Friday.

—Keating must announce his support of Goldwater.

The New York GOP must allow the Conservatives to head its ballot with the GOP slate of Goldwater electors. The GOP has refused to do this.

Ulster Cow Is On State Record For Achievement

Lifetime milk and butterfat production achievements for 55 Registered Holstein cows in New York State have been reported from official records of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Included in the list is one Ulster County cow, Jayway Dean Dollyann, owned by Wayne F. Kelder of Accord. She produced 108,260 pounds of milk and 3,833 pounds of butterfat in 3326 days on official test.

More than 18,500 Registered Holsteins have exceeded this food production milestone while enrolled in the official test breed improvement programs of the Holstein Association. Still more have attained similar goals in unofficial tests.

Production levels of this magnitude can be attributed to scientific advances in feeding and management practices coupled with the generation-to-generation genetic improvement and longevity of Registered Holsteins.

Several Dutchess County cows are listed among the 55 in New York State to attain the 100,000 pounds of milk goal since they reached two years of age.

To Acclaim ...

tion floor and there was no walkout to be recorded by television cameras.

Outside the hall the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party delegates demonstrated on a side street, television cameras and passersby catching their activities.

The credentials committee, headed by former Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, had obtained acceptance by the convention on a voice vote of a report that required the Mississippi regulars, chosen under the auspices of Gov. Paul Johnson, to pledge support to the Johnson ticket before they could be seated. Johnson announced in Mississippi that under no circumstances would he support the Johnson ticket, an outcome that was a surprise to no one.

The committee recommended that the rival Freedom delegation be welcomed to the hall and that two of its leaders be seated as delegates at large with votes that would not be used because no roll calls were in the offing. The Freedom group rejected the compromise but some of its spokesmen said they might reconsider today.

All of this was accompanied by the routine of having candidates for the Senate and governors read the platform, section by section. It was adopted on a voice vote with brief cheering.

McCormack took over the permanent chairman's gavel with an attack on the Republicans. He said the GOP had been captured by extremists who use the methods of totalitarian movements.

"The Republican nominee is trying to create doubt in the power of America's defense, and this in the face of the most abundant proof of America's superiority over its potential enemies," McCormack declared.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, another convention speaker, demanded that Goldwater clarify what he means by "conventional nuclear weapons." Goldwater has said it was rash and irresponsible to deny the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the firepower of tactical nuclear weapons.

Southern governors continued to grumble that Humphrey would be the second-place candidate with the most political liabilities in Dixie. At the same time, they hastened to say they would go along with anybody the President named.

The thinking among the seasoned politicians was that having spent two days maneuvering to quiet any Southern rebellion and moving to prevent any spectacular walkout, Johnson owed the party liberals a gesture to keep them relatively content with the "consensus" party he is trying to build for the general election.

Q "Recently I lost my son, an only child. He left me 100 Florida Power and Light; 300 Florida Gas; 30 Xerox; 500 Webb & Knapp; 200 Elmar Electronics. I do not understand stocks. What should I do about these?" E. B.

A Please allow me to offer you my sympathy in the loss of your only child. He left you a list of stocks of varying quality, but mostly good.

Florida Power & Light is a very fine growth stock, but the yield at present is only 1.75 per cent.

Florida Gas is a fast growing pipeline issue which as yet pays no dividend.

Xerox is one of the best stocks on the Big Board, but the yield is negligible.

Hold these issues for growth if you do not require current income. If you do, switch to Libby-Owens-Ford Glass; Atchafalpa Rwy.; United Gas Corporation.

Webb & Knapp and Elmar Electronics are highly speculative and advise their sale, with proceeds going into a savings account.

Q "Four years ago we bought

Union Carbide for our young son as an investment for his future. At that time, we paid 115 a share and the stock has made little progress since we bought it. Should we continue to hold this stock or sell and put the money in his savings account?" C. T.

A If you will forgive my saying so, you made one of the commonest and most natural mistakes in investing for your objective. You bought an intrinsically strong, "big name" issue, but one that has shown no real growth since 1959. Earnings then were $5.70 a share compared with $5.32 last year, and $5.31 in 1962. The dividend has been unchanged since 1957. The stock at its recent price was around its lowest levels five years ago.

If you want your money to grow, I would not add to savings, but switch to Texaco, which has compiled an outstanding record.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

to this Democratic National Convention city Tuesday a few hours after he announced he would seek the party's U.S. Senate nomination in New York.

"Bobby, Bobby," shouted onlookers who crowded around him as he arrived at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, strode the boardwalk, and again when he left the hotel.

A young woman, who stuck a hand into his automobile ran shrieking to her friends: "I shook his hand; I shook his hand."

Lobby Jammed
Although Kennedy's schedule was little known, hundreds of persons jammed into the lobby and gathered outside the entrance of the hotel to shout a welcome as he arrived.

He and his wife, Ethel, expecting her ninth child, went first to the suite of W. Averell Harriman, undersecretary of state and former governor of New York, for a few moments of relaxation.

When they set out along the boardwalk to attend the opening of a John F. Kennedy Memorial Library exhibit, they were besieged by well-wishers. The scenes were repeated on their way back to the hotel.

Then came what would be a crushing ordeal for anybody but a candidate for office.

Pushed By Admirers
They were pushed and buffeted by admirers as they attended a reception given for them in the hotel's Palm Court by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City.

The mayor had invited New York's entire 406-member delegation to the convention, but hundreds of other persons were on hand. The Kennedys, smiling and amiable throughout, stood for two hours shaking hands and extending greetings as the throng milled around them.

One delegate absent from the reception was Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam. He has said he will fight Kennedy for the senatorial nomination at the state Democratic convention next Tuesday in New York City.

Stratton at Reunion
Stratton, who has been here for the convention, was said by friends to have gone to Washington, D.C., for the day for a reunion with relatives there.

The New York delegates, in a caucus before they attended Tuesday night's session of the convention, endorsed a convention credentials committee report on the seating of Mississippi delegates.

The report recommended the seating of two delegates and two alternates from the state's Freedom Democratic Party, a civil rights group, in addition to the state's Democratic organization slate.

three regulars arose and departed.

Actually, only two of the group—Aaron Henry of Clarksdale and the Rev. Edwin King of Tougaloo—were entitled to seats under the convention decision.

The Mississippi decision to withdraw was announced by Jack Pittman of Hattiesburg.

To Back Barry
"The Mississippi Democratic delegation did not leave the party—it left us," he said.

One delegate, who declined to give his name, said he intends to return to Mississippi and support Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

Gov. Paul Johnson said in Jackson, Miss., that under no circumstance now will he support President Johnson.

The Freedom Democrats, in contesting for the seats, contended that the regulars intended to reconvene the state Democratic convention on Sept. 9 and endorse Goldwater.

Election Talk

rose that the Communist Viet Cong may take advantage of the crisis by attacking the capital itself. Intelligence reports indicate that the Communists may have more than 20,000 troops around Saigon.

He's Confident
Diplomats described 37-year-old Khan as confident he could weather the storm.

The 60 generals and colonels of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed armed forces met under heavy guard at general staff headquarters near Saigon Airport.

Among them was Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the popular Buddhist who directed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem last November. Minh was ousted as figurehead chief of state in Khan's Aug. 16 shake-up, which precipitated the current crisis.

Minh did not attend the junta session 10 days ago when Khan first stepped from premier to president and received dictatorial powers under the new constitution.

Also present today were four generals—including three suspected of favoring neutralization of South Viet Nam—who were placed under house arrest after Khan seized power last Jan. 30.

Although student leaders in Saigon promised to accept the decision of the military revolutionary council, turmoil continued in at least two cities.

Reports from Da Nang, a coastal city 280 miles north of the capital, told of heavy firing around the government communications center. The center was evacuated.

Troops reportedly fired on demonstrators for the first time in three days of antigovernment, anti-Catholic and anti-American rioting in Da Nang, the reports said. At least 11 persons were killed.

The riots began Monday when 1,000 Buddhists stoned a U.S. enlisted men's barracks 100 yards from the Catholic village. The Americans fired shots into the air to ward off the rioters.

Houston Battles Mosquito to Halt Sleeping Sickness

By ED STAATS
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houstonians by the thousands battled the encephalitis-carrying mosquito and its breeding places today as the number of suspected cases of the sleeping sickness rose to 216.

Free insecticide was doled out by the city and residents armed themselves for the war with the female culex mosquito, now blamed for 18 deaths the past 30 days.

Residents in this city of one million flocked to fire stations for the spray chemical they hoped would protect them from the mosquitoes, which carry the disease, commonly called sleeping sickness.

Firemen at 55 fire stations mixed the insecticide and citizens patiently waited for it carrying pickle jars, jugs, buckets, plastic bottles and even empty paint cans.

Many parents said they refused to let their children play outside after dark and stayed home evenings.

A helicopter and 40 trucks were spraying and fogging ditches and bayous—prime mosquito breeding places.

Dr. C. A. Pigford, city health director, said the epidemic—first recognized as such last Thursday—is probably at its peak.

He warned, however, recent rains could increase the swarms of mosquitoes and cause an upsurge in cases a week or 10 days from now.

Ulster Cow Is On State Record For Achievement

Lifetime milk and butterfat production achievements for 55 Registered Holstein cows in New York State have been reported from official records of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Included in the list is one Ulster County cow, Jayway Dean Dollyann, owned by Wayne F. Kelder of Accord. She produced 108,260 pounds of milk and 3,833 pounds of butterfat in 3326 days on official test.

More than 18,500 Registered Holsteins have exceeded this food production milestone while enrolled in the official test breed improvement programs of the Holstein Association. Still more have attained similar goals in unofficial tests.

Production levels of this magnitude can be attributed to scientific advances in feeding and management practices coupled with the generation-to-generation genetic improvement and longevity of Registered Holsteins.

Several Dutchess County cows are listed among the 55 in New York State to attain the 100,000 pounds of milk goal since they reached two years of age.

To Acclaim . . .

tion floor and there was no walkout to be recorded by television cameras.

Outside the hall the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party delegates demonstrated on a side street, television cameras and passersby catching their activities.

The credentials committee, headed by former Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, had obtained acceptance by the convention on a voice vote of a report that required the Mississippi regulars, chosen under the auspices of Gov. Paul Johnson, to pledge support to the Johnson ticket before they could be seated.

Johnson announced in Mississippi that under no circumstances would he support the Johnson ticket, an outcome that was a surprise to no one.

The committee recommended that the rival Freedom delegation be welcomed to the hall and that two of its leaders be seated as delegates at large with votes that would not be used because no roll calls were in the offing.

The Freedom group rejected the compromise but some of its spokesmen said they might reconsider today.

All of this was accompanied by the routine of having candidates for the Senate and governors read the platform, section by section. It was adopted on a voice vote with brief cheering.

McCormack took over the permanent chairman's gavel with an attack on the Republicans. He said the GOP had been captured by extremists who use the methods of totalitarian movements.

"The Republican nominee is trying to create doubt in the power of America's defense, and this in the face of the most abundant proof of America's superiority over its potential enemies," McCormack declared.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, another convention speaker, demanded that Goldwater clarify what he means by "conventional nuclear weapons." Goldwater has said it was rash and irresponsible to deny the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the firepower of tactical nuclear weapons.

Southern governors continued to grumble that Humphrey would be the second-place candidate with the most political liabilities in Dixie. At the same time, they hastened to say they would go along with anybody the President named.

The thinking among the seasoned politicians was that having spent two days maneuvering to quiet any Southern rebellion and moving to prevent any spectacular walkout, Johnson owed the party liberals a gesture to keep them relatively content with the "consensus" party he is trying to build for the general election.

They were: James Tobin, 58, of 100 West Chestnut Street; Nancy Valli, 18, of Main Street; Esopus; Felix Perry, 16, of Route 4, Box 159, Saugerties; and Ilianne Darrow, 29, of RD 3, Box 97, Kingston. John B. Patterson, 49, of West Camp, charged with driving an uninspected vehicle, was fined $10.

Over-sized Shoe

PARK FOREST, Ill. (AP)—A policeman took one look at a 14-year-old boy Tuesday and concluded he was wearing a shoe stolen 12 days ago from a local department store.

The shoe, which the youth was wearing over his regular shoe, was a display model—size 25D, weighed three pounds, was 20 inches long and had a sole ¾ inches thick. He said another boy gave it to him.

Longo Succeeds Togliatti

ROME (AP)—Luigi Longo, a veteran Communist leader, today formally succeeded the late Palmiro Togliatti as secretary-general of the Italian Communist party.

Longo, 64, became Togliatti's deputy after World War II and helped him organize the West's largest Communist party.

Father Inherits From Son And Must Clean Up List

Q) "Recently I lost my son, an only child. He left me 100 Florida Power and Light; 300 Florida Gas; 30 Xerox; 500 Webb & Knapp; 200 Elmar Electronics. I do not understand stocks. What should I do about these?"
E. B.

A) Please allow me to offer you my sympathy in the loss of your only child. He left you a list of stocks of varying quality, but mostly good.

Florida Power & Light is a very fine growth stock, but the yield at present is only 1.75 per cent.

Florida Gas is a fast growing pipeline issue which as yet pays no dividend.

Xerox is one of the best stocks on the Big Board, but the yield is negligible.

Hold these issues for growth if you do not require current income. If you do, switch to Libby-Owens-Ford Glass; Atchison Rwy.; United Gas Corporation.

Webb & Knapp and Elmar Electronics are highly speculative and advise their sale, with proceeds going into a savings account.

Q) "Four years ago we bought Union Carbide for our young son as an investment for his future. At that time, we paid 115 a share and the stock has made little progress since we bought it. Should we continue to hold this stock or sell and put the money in his savings account?"
C. T.

A) If you will forgive my saying so, you made one of the commonest and most natural mistakes in investing for your objective. You bought an intrinsically strong, "big name" issue, but one that has shown no real growth since 1959. Earnings then were $5.70 a share compared with $5.32 last year, and $5.31 in 1962. The dividend has been unchanged since 1957. The stock at its recent price was around its lowest level five years ago.

If you want your money to grow, I would not add to savings, but switch to Texaco, which has compiled an outstanding record.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Onteora Chorus Will Present 12th Concert Sept. 2 in Kingston

Onteora Summer Chorus will present its 12th annual concert Wednesday evening, Sept. 2 at the J. Watson Bailey School Auditorium on Quarry Street. Program begins 9:15 p. m.

Guest artist will be John C. Smead, lyric baritone accompanied at the piano by Howard Houghtaling.

Smead is a graduate of the Crane Department of Music at the New York State University College of Potsdam. He holds bachelors and masters degrees in music education. He has taught music on the elementary, secondary and college levels and is currently vocal supervisor in the Averill Park Schools.

A vocal student of Dr. Helen M. Hosmer, Smead has had singing experience on both the amateur and professional grades embracing opera, oratorio and concert work.

In his teaching capacity Smead has staged "The King and I," "Oklahoma," "Carousel," "Finian's Rainbow," "Showboat," and "My Fair Lady."

Houghtaling has studied music under Donald Romme, organist and composer of religious music. He has been a student of Edward Utley, New York City concert pianist and organist.

Houghtaling has been featured soloist in concert and has served as accompanist for Smead previously. He is at present featured organist at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Chorus, under the direction of Percy W. Gazlay II, will perform three groups of songs composed of sacred, spirituals, show tunes and comic opera.

Gazlay directed the performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" last April at the Community Theater in Kingston. He has studied under Carl Mueller, noted organist and composer of church music. His formal training was completed at Oberlin Conservatory where he studied organ with Arthur Poister and conducting with Maurice Kessler.

This will be Gazlay's fifth year as director of the Onteora Summer Chorus.

DEMOCRATS AWARD TV SET—One of the highlights of the Ulster County Fair was the awarding of a portable TV set to Mrs. Frank Williams of 50 Rock Street, this city. The presentation was made by Aaron Klein, chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee; and Mrs. Klein, at right, chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Campaign Headquarters. The Democratic booth drew capacity attendance at the fair this year. (Freeman photo)

Democratic Ladies Visit Race Track; Some Pick Winners

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Frowning over their form sheets like Lyndon B. Johnson trying to pick a vice president, the ladies of the Democratic National Convention spent a day at the races.

"I can't remember whether my husband told me to put two dollars on No. 8 in the fourth race or four dollars on No. 2 in the eighth race," mused a lady from Utan in a big L.B.J. hat. She compromised by putting five dollars on No. 7, Champion Lady, in the third race.

The big brown filly cut out from the field in the back stretch, just beyond where a sign on the infield grass said "Welcome Democrats," and romped on home. She could have made it the rest of the way in snow shoes, and the lady from Utah pocketed $18.75.

It went pretty much like that the rest of the afternoon. The ladies at the convention had a choice between attending the races and touring a china factory famous for making the White House dinnerware for Presidents Wilson, Truman and Franklin Roosevelt. Twice as many ladies showed up to inspect the two-dollar platters running at the Atlantic City course as turned out to view the presidential crockery.

"I bet one dollar at Monte Carlo last year and one dollar at Las Vegas and here I'm in for two dollars already," exclaimed Alice Narducci of Lambertville, N.J.

The Arkansas delegation hit it big early as a result of one of those hairpin turns of feminine logic that leave veteran horse players talking to themselves long after the lights have gone out on the tote board.

Inez Jones, a delegate and the wife of the state auditor, didn't like Lady Optimist in the first race, but Louise Porter, a delegate and president of the Arkansas Democratic Women's Club, did, because she regards herself as a lady optimist. So Mrs. Jones bought a ticket on Lady Optimist for Mrs. Porter because it was Mrs. Porter's birthday. Get it?

Mrs. Porter did anyway, along with $19.20.

Dedicated Democrats all, the ladies spent almost as much time handicapping the vice-presidential field as they did the resident oat burners. They thought Hubert Humphrey showed early foot while his stablemate Eugene McCarthy was galloping for the long pull, but they feared that Rhode Island's Sen. John Pastore may have emerged as the dark horse to jeopardize Minnesota's double entry on the basis of his early convention workout.

And, without consulting the Owl, Riley, Turfcasters and the other local touts, the lady prognosticators did rule out such long shots as California's Pat Brown and Connecticut's Tom Dodd.

"It'll be a horse race, you can be sure of that," opined Louise Campolo of Roselle Park, N.J.

SHARE LARGE BIRTHDAY CAKE AT OFFICE

Q: I am supervisor of the clerical department of our company. I have 25 people under me. Last week I had a birthday and one of the members of my staff presented me with a homemade birthday cake. I thanked her for it and said it looked delicious. When I left that evening, I took the cake home with me. There have been some comments about my not sharing it with my staff. Was I wrong not to have done so?

A: If the cake was given to you in the presence of your office staff and was large enough to go around, it would have been generous of you to have cut it and shared it with them. If it was small and presented to you privately, you were not wrong in considering it as any other birthday gift and taking it home with you.

Colored Stationery

Q: I am about to buy some new stationery. I have always used white with a monogram but am a little tired of this and would like a color for a change. I was thinking of pink. Would this be in good taste?

A: Pink stationery is not in good taste. As a change from white you can choose either cream, blue or gray which are all in very best taste.

Onteora Chorus Will Present 12th Concert Sept. 2 in Kingston

Onteora Summer Chorus will present its 12th annual concert Wednesday evening, Sept. 2 at the J. Watson Bailey School Auditorium on Quarry Street. Program begins 9:15 p. m.

Guest artist will be John C. Smead, lyric baritone accompanied at the piano by Howard Houghtaling.

Smead is a graduate of the Crane Department of Music at the New York State University College of Potsdam. He holds bachelors and masters degrees in music education. He has taught music on the elementary, secondary and college levels and is currently vocal supervisor in the Averill Park Schools.

A vocal student of Dr. Helen M. Hosmer, Smead has had singing experience on both the amateur and professional grades embracing opera, oratorio and concert work.

In his teaching capacity Smead has staged "The King and I," "Oklahoma," "Carousel," "Finian's Rainbow," "Showboat," and "My Fair Lady." Houghtaling has studied music under Donald Romme, organist and composer of religious music. He has been a student of Edward Utley, New York City concert pianist and organist.

Houghtaling has been featured soloist in concert and has served as accompanist for Smead previously. He is at present featured organist at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Chorus under the direction of Percy W. Gazlay II, will perform three groups of songs composed of sacred, spirituals, show tunes and comic opera.

Gazlay directed the performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" last April at the Community Theater in Kingston. He has studied under Carl Mueller, noted organist and composer of church music. His formal training was completed at Oberlin Conservatory where he studied organ with Arthur Poister and conducting with Maurice Kessler.

This will be Gazlay's fifth year as director of the Onteora Summer Chorus.

DEMOCRATS AWARD TV SET—One of the highlights of the Ulster County Fair was the awarding of a portable TV set to Mrs. Frank Williams of 50 Rock Street, this city. The presentation was made by Aaron Klein, chairman

Democratic Ladies Visit Race Track; Some Pick Winners

"I can't remember" whether my husband told me to put two dollars on No. 8 in the fourth race or four dollars on No. 2 in the eighth race," mused a lady from Utan in a big L.B.J. hat. She compromised by putting five dollars on No. 7, Champion Lady, in the third race.

The big brown filly cut out from the field in the back stretch, just beyond where a sign on the infield grass said "Welcome Democrats," and romped on home. She could have made it the rest of the way in snow shoes, and the lady from Utah pocketed $18.75. It went pretty much like that the rest of the afternoon.

The ladies at the convention

had a choice between attending the races and touring a china factory famous for making the White House dinnerware for Presidents Wilson, Truman and Franklin Roosevelt. Twice as many ladies showed up to inspect the two-dollar platters running as turned out to view the presidential crockery.

"I bet one dollar at Monte Carlo last year and one dollar at Las Vegas and here I'm in for two dollars already," exclaimed Alice Narducci of Lambertville, N.J.

The Arkansas delegation hit it big early as a result of one of those hairpin turns of feminine logic that leave veteran horse players talking to themselves long after the lights have gone out on the tote board.

Inez Jones, a delegate and the wife of the state auditor, didn't like Lady Optimist in the first race, but Louise Porter, a delegate and president of the Arkansas Democratic Women's Club, did, because she regards herself as a lady optimist. So Mrs. Jones bought a ticket on Lady Optimist for Mrs. Porter because it was Mrs. Porter's birthday. Get it?

Mrs. Porter did anyway, along with $19.20.

Dedicated Democrats all, the ladies spent almost as much time handicapping the vice-presidential field as they did the resident oat burners. They thought Hubert Humphrey showed early foot while his stablemate Eugene McCarthy was gaited for the long pull, but they feared that Rhode Island's Sen. John Pastore may have emerged as the dark horse to jeopardize Minnesota's double entry on the basis of his early convention workout.

And, without consulting the Owl, Riley, Turfcasters and the other local touts, the lady prognosticators did rule out such long shots as California's Pat Brown and Connecticut's Tom Dodd.

"It'll be a horse race, you can be sure of that," opined Louise Campolo of Roselle Park, N.J.

SHARE LARGE BIRTHDAY CAKE AT OFFICE

Q: I am supervisor of the clerical department of our company. I have 25 people under me. Last week I had a birthday and one of the members of my staff presented me with a homemade birthday cake. I thanked her for it and said it looked delicious. When I left that evening, I took the cake home with me. There have been some comments about my not sharing it with my staff. Was I wrong not to have done so?

A: If the cake was given to you in the presence of your office staff and was large enough to go around, it would have been generous of you to have cut it and shared it with them. If it was small and presented to you privately, you were not wrong in considering it as any other birthday gift and taking it home with you.

Wedding Guest in White

Q: I have been invited to a wedding and was all set to wear a very pretty white silk dress which I bought especially for this occasion. I have just heard that it is not proper for a guest to wear white to a wedding. Will you please tell me if this is so?

A: If your white dress in no way resembles a wedding dress and will not detract from the brides' own bridal clothes, it would be quite all right to wear it, especially if you add colored accessories.

Colored Stationery

Q: I am about to buy some new stationery. I have always used white with a monogram but am a little tired of this and would like a color for a change. I was thinking of pink. Would this be in good taste?

A: Pink stationery is not in good taste. As a change from white you can choose either cream, blue or gray which are all in very best taste.

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "The New Baby." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Freeman.

SUMMER THEATRES

Lerner and Lowe's smash hit, My Fair Lady, opened at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday night and left one unmistakable impression — the closing two weeks of the local straw hat season will be finishing with full colors.

The witty, tuneful and mirthful musical, tabbed as the biggest musical hit of the century, was just that as a jammed-packed Playhouse of first nighters enjoyed themselves completely from the first line to the finale.

Eliza Doolittle, in need of a good scrubbing, is found outside the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden in London by England's leading phoneticist, James Karen plays the role of Professor Henry Higgins.

Eliza later appears at the elegant home of Professor Higgins on Wimpole Street, seeking help with her cockney dialect. She immediately becomes a pawn of the professor who visualizes an opportunity to transform the wretch into a great lady.

The professor bets his later to be house guest, a Col. Pickering, played by Claude Horton, that within six months he can complete this major transformation of the cockney girl.

The transformation, which comes as no surprise to Professor Higgins but to everyone else, is successful but not the after results. Eliza Doolittle, despite her elegant clothes, jewelry and her new Wimpole Street dialect, is unhappy and berates her benefactor and takes leave of her new surroundings and returns to the tenement sector of London.

But love finally finds its way and everything ends happily. M. Edgar Rosenblum, the Playhouse producer, deserves a big bouquet for his presentation. On the whole, it was a fast-stepping production. Stephen Randall directed the vehicle.

An integral part of the success of My Fair Lady at the Playhouse was the fine musical accompaniment provided by Joseph Schaeffer and Arthur Rivituso at the pianos. The special two-piano arrangement was by Trude Rittman. Mr. Schaeffer also was musical director and choreographer for the production.

Of course, the musical selections of My Fair Lady provided a major effort in its past and present successes. Such great tunes as Wouldn't It Be Lovely, With a Little Bit of Luck, The Rain in Spain, I Could Have Danced All Night and On the Street Where You Live helped to make it an enjoyable evening.

Miss Parsons, Claude Horton, James Karen and Charles Penman, who played the role of Alfred P. Doolittle, father of the cockney girl, all deserve plaudits for their performances.

They were backed up by a distinguished list of supporting players who did admirably well throughout the three-hour smash hit.

Peter Lombard, who portrayed Freddy Eynsford-Hill, who had cast loving eyes at the erstwhile flower girl from the tenement, exhibited a fine voice in singing On the Street Where You Live. Renee Gadd and Kay McDonald contributed to the success of the show.

My Fair Lady, closing out the 26th season at Woodstock Playhouse, will present two matinees tomorrow, Aug. 27 and Thursday, Sept. 3 at 2:30 p. m. Nightly performances are scheduled at 8:40, Sunday, Aug. 30 at 7:30, Sunday, Sept. 6 at 8:40 and Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 7, at 7:30 p. m.

Reception Slated For Lady Bird Today At Demo Convention

The First Lady flies from Washington with her daughter, Lynda, 20, aboard a chartered plane for the late afternoon official welcome.

Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes and 4 of their 10 children will lead the greeting party.

Convention sign painters have been busy making "Welcome Lady Bird" placards and a 36-foot-long welcoming streamer.

Instead of the traditional key to the city, the Hughes children will give the First Lady a tercentenary gold pin, set with emeralds, to mark New Jersey's 300th anniversary.

Mrs. Johnson and both her daughters — Luci, 17, arrived Monday — will be in the presidential box tonight for the nomination of President Johnson and his vice presidential running mate.

President Johnson arrives Thursday to make his acceptance speech and celebrate with his family and fellow Democrats at a giant presidential birthday party.

Reception Slated For Lady Bird Today At Demo Convention

The First Lady flies from Washington with her daughter, Lynda, 20, aboard a chartered plane for the late afternoon official welcome.

Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes and 4 of their 10 children will lead the greeting party.

Convention sign painters have been busy making "Welcome Lady Bird" placards and a 36-foot-long welcoming streamer.

Instead of the traditional key to the city, the Hughes children will give the First Lady a torcentenary gold pin, set with emeralds, to mark New Jersey's 300th anniversary.

Mrs. Johnson and both her daughters — Luci, 17, arrived Monday — will be in the presidential box tonight for the nomination of President Johnson and his vice presidential running mate.

A spokesman for Mrs. Johnson says the First Lady isn't planning to attend any social events tonight.

President Johnson arrives Thursday to make his acceptance speech and celebrate with his family and fellow Democrats at a giant presidential birthday party.

Sexes Growing Too Much Alike; Index Is Needed

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a truism of our times that the sexes are getting more alike in America.

As a matter of fact, it is getting harder and harder to tell them apart.

In the Middle Ages there was no such problem. If a creature had long hair and wore a long dress, it was a woman. If it had on a suit of metal and clanked when it walked, it was a man. Each could tell the sex of the other on sight.

But since knighthood no longer is in flower, the identity of the sexes has become more puzzling. The spread of the equal rights movement and the rise of the "homosexual" have so intermingled the historic roles of men and women that both have become somewhat confused.

Women and men now work at the same jobs. They play the same sports. They dress alike, particularly in their youthful years, and they talk about the same things.

As an inevitable result, they look more alike. As a matter of fact, teenagers now look so much alike that only their own parents can tell which is son, which is daughter.

But it is almost as hard to tell Pop from Mom when both put on slacks to go golfing, or Grandpa from Grandma when they dress up in old clothes to go fishing.

What we need is a kind of Baedeker of Sex to tell the genders apart. Here are a few ways it still can be done.

If it smiles when you address it as "Ma'am," it is feminine. If it grunts and growls, it is masculine.

If it strikes a kitchen match on the seat of its trousers, it's a him. If it waits coyly for you to light its cigarette, it's a her.

If it takes off its shoes at the movies, it's a woman. If it gets down on its hands and knees and starts looking for the shoes, it's a man.

Does it do its fair share of pushing while going through a revolving door? It's a gentleman for sure. Does it leap in front of you and grab the taxi you just flagged down? It's a lady — every time.

If it brags about the steaks it cooked in the backyard, it's a man. If it dimples when you praise the roast it cooks indoors, it's a woman.

If it wears a red ribbon in its hair, it's a lass. If it combs its hair like the north end of a duck going south, it's a lad.

If two go to the supermarket, the one that pushes the loaded cart is the mister. The missus is the one that holds up the line at the checkout counter as she fumbles through the wilderness of her purse.

If you open the door to it and it tries to kiss you a box of cookies, it's a Girl Scout. If it helps old ladies across a street, it's a Boy Scout.

Does it bring its paycheck home in its mouth? It's a man. Does it think money grows on trees? It's a woman.

If it writes newspaper columns such as this, it's a him. If it reads columns such as this and loses its temper, it's a her.

Dog Named Bunny Finds Rabbit, Is Foster Mother Now

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A dog named Bunny has lived up to her name—she has adopted a wild rabbit.

"You never saw anything like it. That's her baby," said Mrs. Mildred Casey, who owns Bunny, a year and a half old Terrier, and more or less owns the rabbit, too.

Bunny was hunting rodents, a favorite pastime, about three weeks ago when she returned to the Casey house with a baby rabbit tucked gently in her mouth.

The two have been inseparable since that time. Bunny "sits down and washes that rabbit's face and ears. And just try to touch that rabbit—your arm will come back a mangled stump. It's all right to look, but don't touch," says Mrs. Casey.

The rabbit, unnamed as yet, has grown fat and sassy. "To tell you the truth, I'm a little tired of feeding that big fat rabbit," Mrs. Casey said Tuesday. "But I don't dare touch it. Bunny won't let me."

Mrs. Casey believes that the maternal instinct was brought out when Bunny suffered an apparent traumatic shock about three months ago when she lost her puppy.

International Youth Orchestra to Perform In Nation's Capitol

INTERLOCHEN, Mich. — One hundred-two teen-agers from around the globe—who prefer Strauss to the Beatles—will be in Washington, D. C., Saturday night to perform a special concert at the beautiful Watergate Theatre Barge.

All members of the first International Youth Symphony Orchestra ever assembled, the talented youngsters come from Korea, Yugoslavia, Germany, Austria, England, Canada, and 18 of the United States.

As members of the International Youth Symphony they will present a colorful concert at 8:30 p. m. Saturday on the Potomac River in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial.

They come to Washington after presenting three concerts during the first Interlochen Arts Festival which began Friday, Aug. 21, and will continue through Sunday (Aug. 30).

The gifted youths have been in training at the National Music Camp for the past eight weeks under the careful eye of Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, president and founder of the National Music Camp and the Interlochen Arts Academy.

The three Interlochen concerts by the International Youth Symphony opened the major part of the 10-day arts and music festival, which is featuring Eugene Ormandy and his famous Philadelphia Orchestra and such outstanding guest artists as pianist Van Cliburn, baritone William Warfield as narrator, and violinist Joseph Knitzer.

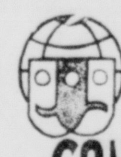

The orchestra is the realization of another dream of Dr. Maddy, the 72-year-old music education pioneer who failed in an attempt to get his National High School Symphony Orchestra abroad.

Mishap at Traffic Circle

Two vehicles were involved in a minor mishap in a parking area at the Highland Traffic Circle at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. State Police Sergeant E. E. Winkky said Catherine Musacchia, of Jamaica, L. I., was backing her car when it struck a vehicle operated by Hildred Holdsworth, 49, of Clarksburg, W. Va. No injuries were reported according to Trooper Harry Foster.

tion of another dream of Dr. Maddy, the 72-year-old music education pioneer who failed in an attempt to get his National High School Symphony Orchestra abroad.

As members of the International Youth Symphony they will present a colorful concert at 8:30 p. m. Saturday on the Potomac River in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial.

They come to Washington after presenting three concerts during the first Interlochen Arts Festival which began Friday, Aug. 21, and will continue through Sunday (Aug. 30).

The gifted youths have been in training at the National Music Camp for the past eight weeks under the careful eye of Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, president and founder of the National Music Camp and the Interlochen Arts Academy.

The three Interlochen concerts by the International Youth Symphony opened the major part of the 10-day arts and music festa, which is featuring Eugene Ormandy and his famous Philadelphia Orchestra and such outstanding guest artists as pianist Van Cliburn, baritone William Warfield as narrator, and violinist Joseph Kmitzer.

Change in Class A

County Seniors Golf Tourney Slated at Woodstock Sept. 13

Sept. 13 at Kutsher's

Noted Trotting Figure Will Address Writers

One of the greatest developers of trotting horses in the world, private trainer for the Arden Homestead Stable and producer of several world champions—Harry Pownall Sr.—will be the guest speaker at the sixth annual awards banquet of the Monticello Chapter, U. S. Harness Writers Association.

The annual event, one of the top social functions of the season, will be held Sunday, Sept. 13, at Kutsher's Country Club in Monticello. The dinner is a climax of the harness racing at Monticello and leading horses, drivers and trainers are honored.

Pownall drove his first race at Minerva, L. I., in 1919. He won his first race in July, 1920, at Goshen and has been a consistent ever since.

Head trainer for the Arden Homestead Stable since 1948, Pownall was assistant to Bill Dickerson prior to that time. He is married to the former Beatrice Smith and they have one son, Harry Jr., also a licensed driver.

First 2-Minute Mile
Pownall drove Titan Hanover to the first two-minute mile ever posted by a two-year-old, regardless of sex.

More than a million dollars in purse money have been won by Pownall's leading driver along the Grand Circuit, the World Series of Harness Racing.

Among his many trotters, Pownall believes Matostar is the fastest he has ever trained and driven and rates Florican and Sharpshooter the gamest.

HARRY POWNALL

The guest speaker winter-trains at Pompano Beach, Florida, races the Grand Circuit and some major meets. He has won nearly every major trotting stake in existence, including the 1945 Hambletonian, the Kentucky Futurity, and the Dexter Cup.

The appearance of Pownall gives those attending the dinner a chance to hear from another top trainer-driver. Appearing in other years at the dinner have been Del Miller, Stanley Dancer and Bill Haughton.

Tickets, which are limited, may be purchased from members of the chapter.

Players 70 and Over to Compete in 'A' Division

The Ulster County Seniors Golf Association will return to its original Class A format for the 12th annual championships on Sept. 13, president A. J. (Tony) de Liso has announced.

The Class A division this year will include all golfers 70 years and older. For the past few years, the UCSGA had designated Class A for golfers 75 years and over.

Dwindling entries in the 75 and up age bracket prompted the return to the original classification, de Liso said. He noted that in last year's tournament only two players, Harry Hohnhorst, the champion, and Bruff W. Olin—completed their round in the A division.

The change is expected to add at least 10 or 12 players to the Class A field and poses a more formidable threat to Hohnhorst's 60 and 64; Class D—55 to 59; Class E—50 to 54.

Prizes will be awarded for low gross and low net in each division. The association president said the prizes this year would be the most attractive in the tournament's history.

Winner of the Class A division is recognized as the Ulster County seniors champion. Harry Hohnhorst has been the winner for the past five years.

3 Area Golfers In Line for Trip

NEW YORK—Three Kingston golfers have become eligible to win a trip to Scotland for two and $1,000 by scoring holes-in-one. Gerald Gruberg, 58 Watson Lane, Thomas Stenson, 7 Delta Place, and John Turck, 31 W. Chestnut Street, all shot aces at the Wiltwyck Country Club to enter the Old Smuggler Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, an annual golf competition.

The winner will be announced at the end of the year.

Reed Wins For LA's; Who He?

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Howie Reed doesn't win very often. In fact, his pitching victories are so well spaced out he might even pass for a Met.

But when the 27-year-old right-hander does get around to winning one, he does it in convincing fashion — and he makes the licking hurt.

Reed, who hadn't won in the majors since 1958, got around to it again Tuesday night. He fashioned a six-hitter with 11th inning help — for the Los Angeles Dodgers and beat San Francisco's struggling Giants 3-1.

The loss dropped the Giants into third place and left them 6½ games behind National League leading Philadelphia, a deficit that becomes more imposing each day.

Reed took over second place, rapping the New York Mets 7-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Purkey while Philadelphia took a 7-5 licking from Milwaukee for the Braves' second straight over the league leaders.

Houston held off Chicago 5-4 and Lou Brock's 13th inning homer sealed St. Louis' 7-6 verdict over Pittsburgh in the other games.

First Since 1958

Reed, whose last major league triumph was a 2-1 decision over the Chicago White Sox while pitching with Kansas City Sept. 23, 1958, was in top form against the Giants.

He allowed only five hits through the first seven innings, gave up another in the eighth, then weakened in the ninth. With one out, he issued walks to Chuck Hillier and Matty Alou.

Ron Perranoski came on to get one out and Bob Miller was called in to strike out Willie Mays and end the game. It was only Los Angeles' fourth victory over San Francisco in 15 games this year, but it left the Giants with an overwhelming task in attempting to overtake Philadelphia.

For example, if the Phillies play anywhere near their current pace, they'd wind up with 98 victories. To catch them, the Giants would have to win 28 of their remaining 36 games.

The Mets got two runs — on Ron Hunt's homer — before Purkey got anyone out, but he shut them out the rest of the game. Frank Robinson doubled in two runs and Deron Johnson doubled in three for all the working room Purkey needed.

The Braves built an early lead on homers by Eddie Mathews and Lee Maye, then held off Philadelphia's late rush. Braves held the Phillies to three hits over the first seven innings, but the Phils chased him in the eighth, scoring three runs on two singles, a fielders' choice and Johnny Callison's homer.

St. Louis had blown a 4-0 lead, then came from behind 6-4 before Brock settled their long struggle with Pittsburgh with his homer. Veteran Smokey Burgess drove in two Pittsburgh runs with a pinch single in the top of the 12th, but the Cards matched them in the bottom of the inning.

Bob Aspinette drove in one run with a double, another with a sacrifice fly and scored a third as Houston jumped on rookie John Flavin for five runs in the first 2½ innings, then held on against the Cubs.

Buffalo got only two hits off Toronto left-hander Marshall Bridges in the opener. The second game, by Amado Samuel, came in the eighth inning and gave Darrell Sutherland his ninth victory without a defeat.

Columbus scored five unearned runs against Atlanta — four of them coming in the first inning after two were out. Not only did Atlanta lose the game, the Crackers also lost second baseman Jim Snyder, who was hit by a pitched ball.

Snyder, who made a brief trip to the majors earlier this year, was hit on the arm and will be out for an undetermined length of time.

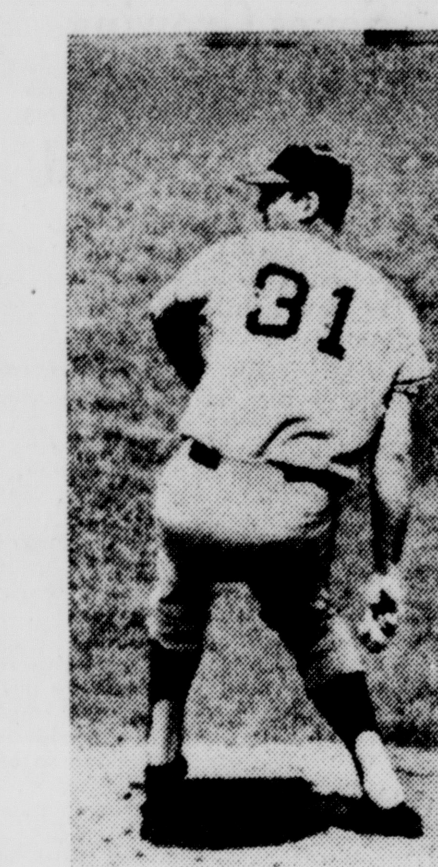

Geneva Moves Closer to First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Geneva inched closer to first place in the New York-Penn. Baseball League Tuesday night by shading front-running Auburn 3-2 on Ed Mouton's bases-loaded double.

The Senators, now only a single game back, spoiled Frank McGraw's shutout with three runs in the eighth inning. Dick Noid earned his nineteenth victory against six defeats by twirling a nifty four-hitter for host Geneva.

Wellsville, sparked by Joe Verdon's single with the bases packed, beat visiting Binghamton 6-3 in the league's only other action. The Batavia at Jamestown contest was washed out.

'Sink or Swim With Hornung' - Lombardi

GREEN BAY

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST DE PERE, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi has the whip out this year. Aroused by two defeats at the hands of the Chicago Bears, and loss of the NFL title, Lombardi is driving his Green Bay Packers as they never have been driven before.

"The first Bear game last year was the biggest disappointment of my career," said Lombardi at the training camp at St. Norbert College. "We couldn't have beaten them in the second game with blackjacks, but we should have won the first."

"We are looking forward to this year. I have been driving the boys hard. We will be in physical condition. But the big thing is pride in your work. . . . The intangibles, the abstracts. You never know about that until the games start."

Hornung Is Key

Paul Hornung was the first to feel the sting of Lombardi's hard approach of 1964. The Golden Boy, reinstated after a one-year suspension for betting on games, was ordered to report in April. Running up and down the steps of the Packers' stadium pared off the pounds so that Hornung goes into the season at 212 pounds, six below his weight in 1962.

"We'll sink or swim with Hornung," said Lombardi, coach-general manager of the Packers. "Paul is in fine condition mentally and physically. The rest is up to him."

Lombardi may throw three running backs at National Football League opposition in some games. Tom Moore, who did a fine job as Hornung's replacement, has been worked as a slot back or flanker.

Jim Taylor appears to have recovered completely from the hepatitis that handicapped him during the early games last season. With Taylor booming up the middle and Hornung and Moore to run to the outside, the Packers' ground attack should be the best in the league.

Bart Starr will operate a ball-control offense, copied so successfully by the Bears last year. Bart has fine targets in Max McGee at split end, tight end Ron Kramer and Boyd Dowler at flanker but also likes to throw to his backs more than most quarterbacks. Hornung, Moore and Taylor all are good receivers.

Has 4th Shutout

It was the 10th complete game and fourth shutout for Pizarro, who was a spring holdout until March 25, but got off to the best start of his career, reeling off five successive victories.

The Indians struck for five runs in the eighth inning, the last three on Bob Chance's two-run homer and Leon Wagner's solo shot, to overtake Baltimore.

Orioles starter Milt Pappas gave up Cleveland's fourth hit of the game, a double to Tito Francona, and walked Woody Held before being replaced by Harvey Haddix in the eighth.

Max Alvis' pinch single scored one run, Chico Salmon singled, loading the bases, and the second run crossed while Dick Howser was grounding into a double play. Then Chance and Wagner connected back-to-back.

Luis Aparicio's two-run homer had helped the Orioles to a 3-0 lead.

First Since July 15

Whitey Ford won his first game since July 15 when the Yankees came from behind with four runs in the eighth. Mickey Mantle's third hit of the night, a two-run double, was the key blow.

Ford worked eight innings, leaving for a pinch hitter in the Yankees' winning rally. Al Downing nailed down the victory by fanning the side in the ninth.

Dean Chance picked up his 15th victory of the season as the Angels did all their scoring in the fifth inning, with singles by Bobby Knoop, Albie Pearson and Lou Clinton, plus a bases-loaded walk and wild pitch delivering the runs.

Bob Lee relieved Chance in the seventh, when the Athletics scored their last two runs on Doc Edwards' single, Bert Campaneris' triple and a pinch single by Manny Jimenez.

Don Demeter's three-run homer in the sixth paced Detroit's 15-hit attack against the Red Sox. Demeter's 18th circuit broke a 6-6 tie and the Tigers wrapped it up with two more in the bottom of the inning.

Stigman checked the Sox on three hits until Jim Landis led

McElhenny Is Among 50 Sliced Off Grid Squads

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Hugh McElhenny can't recall the last time he went job-hunting in August.

The King has had steady autumn employment for almost 20 years, the last 12 as a living legend in the National Football League.

Today, however, 36-year-old McElhenny heads a group of disappointed gridderers faced with a professional dead-end. The one-time All-America and All-Pro halfback was among some 50 veterans and rookies sliced from National and American League squads Tuesday.

The NFL clubs trimmed their rosters to 45 men, the AFL to 43. Both leagues have until Sept. 8, a week before their season kickoffs, to make the final limits of 40 (NFL) and 34 (AFL).

McElhenny, who has gained over 10,000 yards since his Rookie of the Year debut with the San Francisco 49ers in 1952, was surprised when the New York Giants made his release part of a wholesale shake-up.

A second King, Vanderbilt alumnus Phil, was traded to Pittsburgh for a future draft choice while Joe Don Looney, the Giants' No. 1 draft pick this year, went to Baltimore in a five-player swap. The Colts also got tackle Lou Koricue and a future draft selection.

The Giants received two veterans pass catcher R. C. Owens and defensive back Andy Nelson.

The Giants cut five other players, including Glynn Griffith, last year's No. 2 quarterback, and returned former All-Pro defensive end Andy Robustelli to their active roster. Tackle Frank Lasky, one of the casualties, was claimed on waivers by the 49ers.

Venturi Now Favored In Carling Championship

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Arnold Palmer has the putting "yips", Jack Nicklaus has a crook in his elbow, and Ken Venturi has nothing but confidence and an uncanny feeling for the flag.

So it's Venturi, the reigning National Open champion, and not the Big Two who will be favored when 155 golfers from 14 nations tee off Thursday in the first $200,000 Carling World Championship.

First prize in the 71-hole, four-day test is $35,000, a year's salary for many top executives, and it's the kind of purse which usually brings out the best in the blacksmith-strong Palmer and power-driving Nicklaus.

However, both are off top form — Palmer on the putting greens and Nicklaus on the tees — while Venturi is currently the hottest article on the circuit.

After three years of frustration during which he almost gave up the game, the 33-year-old picture swinger from San Francisco found himself in the National Open last June in Washington's suffocating heat.

His confidence has been soaring ever since.

Venturi won the American Golf Classic at Akron, Ohio, last week by a record five shots and with a record tournament score of 275.

Tuning up for the event here over the 6,907-yard, par 70 Oakland Hills course he had four straight birdies on the front nine for a four-under-par 31, then birdied the 11th and eagled the 566-yard 12th to go seven under.

"I started thinking then that this was just a practice run, and I didn't want to get a monkey on my back before the tournament started," Ken said. "So I sluffed off a few holes and finished with about 67."

"I am playing so well, I am so sure of myself on shots, to the green that it startles me."

Palmer, who has had four second places and two thirds in his last six tournaments, continued to experiment with beat up, lead-headed putters without finding a satisfactory one.

"From five feet in, I used to never miss a putt," Palmer said. "Now I miss them, and it's costing me."

Howie Reed doesn't win very often. In fact, his pitching victories are so well spaced out he might even pass for a Met.

But when the 27-year-old right-hander does get around to winning one, he does it in convincing fashion—and he makes the licking hurt.

Reed, who hadn't won in the majors since 1958, got around to it again Tuesday night. He fashioned a six-hitter—with ninth inning help—for the Los Angeles Dodgers and beat San Francisco's struggling Giants 3-1.

The loss dropped the Giants into third place and left them 6 1/2 games behind National League leading Philadelphia, a deficit that becomes more imposing each day.

Cincinnati took over second place, rapping the New York Mets 7-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Purkey while Philadelphia took a 7-5 licking from Milwaukee for the Braves' second straight over the league leaders.

Houston held off Chicago 5-4 and Los Angeles' 13th inning homer sealed St. Louis' 7-6 victory over Pittsburgh in the other games.

First Since 1958

Reed, whose last major league triumph was a 2-1 decision over the Chicago White Sox while pitching with Kansas City Sept. 23, 1958, was in top form against the Giants.

He allowed only five hits through the first seven innings, gave up another in the eighth, then weakened in the ninth. With one out, he issued walks to Chuck Hiller and Matty Alou.

Ron Peranowski came in to get one out and Bob Miller was called in to strike out Willie Mays and end the game. It was only Los Angeles' fourth victory over San Francisco in 15 games this year, but it left the Giants with an overwhelming task in attempting to overtake Philadelphia.

For example, if the Phillies play anywhere near their current pace, they will wind up with 98 victories. To catch them, the Giants would have to win 28 of their remaining 36 games.

The Mets got two runs—on Ron Hunt's homer—before Purkey got anyone out, but he shut them out the rest of the way. Frank Robinson doubled in two runs and Deron Johnson doubled in three for all the working room Purkey needed.

The Braves built an early lead on homers by Eddie Mathews and Lee Maye, then held off Philadelphia's late surge. Braves held the Phillies to three hits over the first seven innings, but the Phils chased him in the eighth, scoring three runs on two singles, a fielders choice and Johnny Callison's homer.

St. Louis had blown a 4-0 lead, then come from behind 4-6 before Brock settled their long struggle with Pittsburgh with his homer. Veteran Smokey Burgess drove in two Pittsburgh runs with a pinch single in the 12th, but the Cards matched them in the bottom of the inning.

Bob Aspromonte drove in one run with a double, another with a sacrifice fly and scored a third as Houston jumped on rookie John Flavin for five runs in the first 1 1/3 innings, then held on against the Cubs.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Arnold Palmer has the putting "yips," Jack Nicklaus has a crook in his elbow, and Ken Venturi has nothing but confidence and an uncanny feeling for the flag.

So it's Venturi, the reigning National Open champion, and not the Big Two who will be favored when 155 golfers from 14 nations tee off Thursday in the first $200,000 Carling World Championship.

First prize in the 71-hole, four-day test is $35,000, a year's salary for many top executives, and it's the kind of purse which usually brings out the best in the blacksmith-strong Palmer and power-driving Nicklaus.

However, both are off top form—Palmer on the putting greens and Nicklaus on the tees—while Venturi is currently the hottest article on the circuit.

After three years of frustration during which he almost gave up the game, the 33-year-old picture swinger from San Francisco found himself in the National Open last June in Washington's suffocating heat.

Comme a chunky 5-11, scored three decisions and picked up a bye in the earlier rounds.

The first stalemate involved Lance Parker of the Army and Pat Lovell of Redwood City, Calif. Steve Shippos of Ithaca, N.Y., and Jack Barden of Port Huron, Mich., grappled to the other draw.

Comme a chunky 5-11, scored three decisions and picked up a bye in the earlier rounds.

Dan Brand of the San Francisco Olympic Club, winner of the National AAU freestyle and Greco-Roman crowns in the 213.5 pound class, continued his drive towards a second successive berth on Uncle Sam's Olympic team.

Wellsville, sparked by Joe Verdon's single with the bases packed, beat visiting Binghamton 6-3 in the league's only other action. The Batavia at James-town contest was washed out.

Players 70 and Over to Compete In 'A' Division

The Ulster County Seniors Golf Association will return to its original Class A format for the 12th annual championships on Sept. 13, president A. J. (Tony) de Lisio has announced.

The Class A division this year will include all golfers 70 years and older. For the past few years, the UCSGA had designated Class A for golfers 75 years and over.

Dwindling entries in the 75 and up age bracket prompted the return to the original classification, de Lisio said. He noted that in last year's tournament host, the champion, and Bruff W. Olin—completed their round in the A division.

The change is expected to add at least 10 or 12 players to the Class A field and poses a more formidable threat to Hohnhorst's long reign in that division. The field also will play 18 holes instead of 13 as in the past.

Entry Blanks Out

Entry blanks for the tournament at Woodstock have been mailed to all golfers who competed in the 1963 event. All other eligible players (50 years and over) may obtain the blanks at their pro shops.

The age brackets are as follows: Class A—70 years and over; Class B—65 to 69; Class C—60 to 64; Class D—55 to 59; Class E—50 to 54.

Prizes will be awarded for low gross and low net in each division. The association president said the prizes this year would be the most attractive in the tournament's history.

Winner of the Class A division is recognized as the Ulster County seniors champion Harry Hohnhorst has been the winner for the past five years.

Deadline for entries is Wednesday, Sept. 9.

Syracuse Chiefs Lose Again, Now Tied for First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No one would ever accuse the Syracuse Chiefs of doing a rain dance—but things do look a little suspicious.

The Chiefs, who are battling with Jacksonville for the International League pennant, had just lost their second game in a row to Rochester, 9-4, Tuesday and were having trouble grouping their forces.

Then the rain came, causing the second game of their doubleheader to be rained out, but the loss was still enough to drop the Chiefs into a first place tie with Jacksonville, which split a pair with Richmond.

Jacksonville edged the Virginians 4-3 in the first game, but Richmond came up with five big runs in the third inning of the second game and just coasted to an 8-2 victory.

In other games, Buffalo finally turned loose its power and took Toronto in both ends of a doubleheader, 2-1 and 12-3, and Columbus won its 10th game in its last 13 starts by edging Atlanta 6-4.

Rochester started fast against Syracuse, pushing across three runs in the first inning and four more in the third. The biggest blow was John Griffin's three-run homer.

On the bright side for Syracuse, Mack Jones upped his league lead in homers to 38 with a solo blast off winning pitcher John Miller.

Jack Damaska starred at the plate in Jacksonville's victory, driving in three of the four runs. Art Lopez came up with three hits to lead Richmond in the second game.

Buffalo got only two hits off Toronto left-hander Marshall Bridges in the opener. The second one, by Amado Samuel, came in the eighth inning and gave Darrell Sutherland his ninth victory without a defeat.

Columbus scored five unearned runs against Atlanta—four of them coming in the first inning after two were out. Not only did Atlanta lose the game, the Crackers also lost second baseman Jim Snyder, who was hit by a pitched ball.

Snyder, who made a brief trip to the majors earlier this year, was hit on the arm and will be out for an undetermined length of time.

Geneva Moves Closer to First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Geneva inched closer to first place in the New York-Penn Baseball League Tuesday night by shading front-running Auburn 3-2 on Ed Mouton's bases-loaded double.

The Senators, now only a single game back, spoiled Frank McGraw's shutout with three runs in the eighth inning. Dick Nold earned his nineteenth victory against six defeats by twirling a nifty four-hitter for host Geneva.

Wellsville, sparked by Joe Verdon's single with the bases packed, beat visiting Binghamton 6-3 in the league's only other action. The Batavia at James-town contest was washed out.

GAME OF CHANCE—The hottest pitcher in the major leagues is Dean Chance, the young righthander of the Los Angeles Angels. He is leading both leagues in shutouts on the way to his greatest season since coming up in late 1961.

Juan Pizarro Heading For 20-Win Mark 'Sink or Swim With Hornung' - Lombardi

GREEN BAY

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST DE PERE, Wis. (AP)—Vince Lombardi has the whip out this year. Aroused by two defeats at the hands of the Chicago Bears, and loss of the NFL title, Lombardi is driving his Green Bay Packers as they never have been driven before.

"The first Bear game last year was the biggest disappointment of my career," said Lombardi at the training camp at St. Norbert College. "We couldn't have beaten them in the second game with blackjacks, but we should have won the first."

"We are looking forward to this year. I have been driving the boys hard. We will be in physical condition. But the big thing is pride in your work.... the intangibles, the abstracts. You never know about that until the games start."

Hornung Is Key

Paul Hornung was the first to feel the sting of Lombardi's hard approach of 1964. The Golden Boy, reinstated after a one-year suspension for betting on games, was ordered to report in April. Running up and down the steps of the Packers' stadium pared off the pounds so that Hornung goes into the season at 212 pounds, six below his weight in 1962.

"We'll sink or swim with Hornung," said Lombardi, coach-general manager of the Packers. "Paul is in fine condition mentally and physically. The rest is up to him."

Lombardi may throw three running backs at National Football League opposition in some games. Tom Moore, who did a fine job as Hornung's replacement, has been worked as a slot back or flanker.

Jim Taylor appears to have recovered completely from the hepatitis that handicapped him during the early games last season. With Taylor booming up the middle, and Hornung and Moore to run to the outside, the Packers' ground attack should be the best in the league.

Bart Starr will operate a ball-control offense, copied so successfully by the Bears last year. Bart has fine targets in Max McGee at split end, tight end Ron Kramer and Boyd Dowler at flanker but also likes to throw to his backs more than most quarterbacks. Hornung, Moore and Taylor all are good receivers.

Have Good Prospects

Lombardi thinks he has come up with a real hot prospect in Dennis Claidie, a rookie quarterback from Nebraska.

Originally Claidie was drafted as a running back but he has thrown the ball so effectively that Lombardi now says, "We may groom him for quarterback in a couple of years." Zeke Bratkowski is the veteran backup man for Starr.

The front offensive line will be the same except for Bob Skowronski, formerly a tackle, who takes over Jim Ringo's old job at center. Fuzzy Thurston and Jerry Kramer are the guards and Norm Masters and Forrest Gregg the tackles.

Lee Roy Caffey, who came from Philadelphia in the deal for Earl Gros and Ringo, is giving Dan Currie a battle for a linebacker job. Ray Nitschke is set at middle linebacker and Dave Robinson on the right side.

The front four of Willie Davis, Dave (Hawg) Hanner, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge is intact. So is the deep backfield defense of Herb Adderley and Jesse Whitenton at the corners and Hank Greminger and Willie Wood at safety.

Schneider-Davenport Win Member Guest Tournament

Mrs. George Schneider and her guest, Mrs. Richard (Betty) Davenport, the newly crowned Wiltwyck Country Club women's champion, fired a combined net 147 Tuesday to win the annual Twaalfskill Women's Member-Guest tournament.

Mrs. Davenport also posted low gross for the day with an 83. Mrs. Robert Carnright had the lowest score of her competitive career with an 87.

Mrs. Carnright and her guest, Mrs. J. Carson Hutchins of Woodstock, placed second with 148. The winning team had 186 gross and 39 handicap. The runners-up shot 187-39-148.

Venturi Now Favored In Carling Championship

Chisox's Lefty Bags 17th, 1-0 Over Minnesota

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Pizarro has been a potential 20-game winner since he started throwing rocks in Santurce, P.R., 11 years ago.

Al Lopez is betting a World Series ticket that the White Sox left-hander makes the charmed circle in 1964.

Pizarro pitched Chicago to within a game of first place Tuesday night when he blanked Minnesota 1-0 on a masterful five-hitter. The victory was No. 17, tops in the American League, for the 27-year-old fireballer and the shutout lowered his earned run average to a brilliant 2.00.

He has never been this close to the 20-victory mark before, though tagged "another Bob Feller" before he had thrown a pitch in anger in the major leagues.

Juan started the 1953 Winter League season as the Santurce club's batboy but wound up on the pitching staff when he discovered he could fling rocks harder than the team's pitchers could throw baseballs.

Fanned 318 Batters

Two years later he was Milwaukee's prize farmhand, striking out 318 batters for the Braves' Jacksonville club in the old Sally League. The Braves had paid Santurce $35,000 for his contract, but they never got a return on their investment.

Pizarro and the Milwaukee management suffered through four seasons with equally unimpressive results.

Finally, in 1960, the Braves traded him to the White Sox and Lopez made him reclamation project No. 1. Pizarro has been a winner ever since.

Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night Cleveland upended league-leading Baltimore 5-3; third place New York topped Washington 4-1; Los Angeles defeated Kansas City 5-1 and Detroit slugged Boston 11-6.

Pizarro, 17-6, pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the top of the ninth before the White Sox broke through lefty Dick Stigman in the bottom of the inning. Stigman checked the Sox on three hits until Jim Landis led out later, Floyd Robinson singled. Bill Skowron lined out before Ron Hansen broke it up with a run-scoring hit to left.

Has 4th Shutout

It was the 10th complete game and fourth shutout for Pizarro, who was a spring holdout until March 25, but got off to the best start of his career, reeling off five successive victories.

The Indians struck for five runs in the eighth inning, the last three on Bob Chance's two-run homer and Leon Wagner's solo shot, to overtake Baltimore.

Orioles starter Milt Pappas gave up Cleveland's fourth hit of the game, a double to Tito Francona, and walked Woody Held before being replaced by Harvey Haddix in the eighth. Max Alvis' pinch single scored one run, Chico Salmon singled, loading the bases, and the second run crossed while Dick Howser was grounding into a double play. Then Chance and Wagner connected back-to-back.

Luis Aparicio's two-run homer

First Since July 15

Whitey Ford won his first game since July 15 when the Yankees came from behind with four runs in the eighth. Mickey Mantle's third hit of the night, a two-run double, was the key blow.

Ford worked eight innings, leaving for a pinch hitter in the Yankees' winning rally. Al Downing nailed down the victory by fanning the side in the ninth.

Dean Chance picked up his 15th victory of the season as the Angels did all their scoring in the fifth inning, with singles by Bobby Knoop, Albie Pearson and Lou Clinton, plus a bases-loaded walk and wild pitch delivering the relief.

Bob Lee relieved Chance in the seventh, when the Athletics scored their last two runs on Doc Edwards' single, Bert Campaneris' triple and a pinch single by Manny Jimenez.

Don Demeter's three-run homer in the sixth paced Detroit's 13-hit attack against the Red Sox. Demeter's 18th circuit broke a 6-6 tie and the Tigers wrapped it up with two more in the seventh after Carl Yastrzemski's two-base error opened the gate.

Mantle Breathes Life Into Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — They've just about run out of superlatives for Mickey Mantle. Even Whitey Ford, his New York teammate and best friend, shrugs his shoulders and says: "What can you say new about him? It's already been said 100 times."

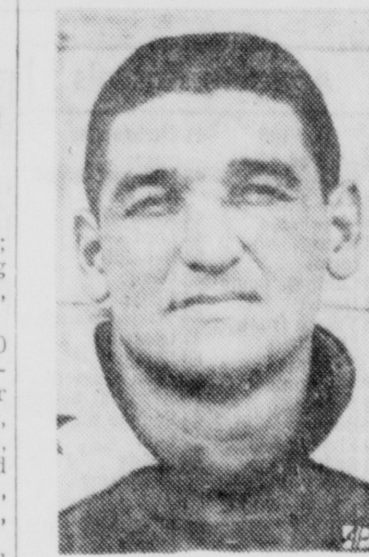

But Mantle never runs out of heroics. Each day, it seems, the crippled star comes through with a standout performance that either starts a rally, keeps one going or breaks up the game.

Mantle breathed new life into the third-place Yankees Tuesday night and had Manager Yogi Berra once more talking hopefully of a pennant.

It was Mickey's bases-loaded double for two runs in the eighth inning that overcame a 1-0 Washington advantage and led to a 4-1 Yankee triumph. Sweetening the victory was Cleveland's comeback 5-3 victory over Baltimore, trimming the Orioles' first-place lead over the third-place Yankees to four games.

"We're just a different team with Mick in there," said Ford "whether he's 100 per cent or only 50 per cent."

He could hardly run over the weekend in Boston but all the guys wanted him in the lineup.

Delegates Would Outlaw Proposed Liston-Clay Bout

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A majority of the early arrivals at the World Boxing Association convention this week favor outlawing the proposed Liston-Clay rematch.

Pre-convention talks with delegates also indicate there will be a floor fight over the WBA's suspension of Sonny Liston after he lost the world heavyweight boxing title to Cassius Clay.

James E. Deskin, executive secretary of the Nevada State Athletic Commission, said Tuesday he plans to take the floor at the convention Thursday and challenge the WBA's suspension of Liston. He maintains that the WBA did not have the authority to suspend Liston until a member boxing commission did so.

Liston was suspended for not coming out of his corner at the beginning of the seventh round of his fight with Clay last February in Miami Beach. He complained of a shoulder injury.

Hopewell Junction Salesman Held $34,047 Ticket on TD

MONTICELLO, New York, August 25—A real estate salesman from Hopewell Junction is the lucky holder of a twin double ticket valued at $34,047.60 simply because he played the numbers of his home telephone, which read CA 6-7326.

Anthony Russo, a salesman for the Monroe Gold Real Estate firm of Hopewell Junction, played the last four digits of his telephone number on Monday night. When those positions won, he was the only person in the track to have the combination and he took home the entire twin double pool.

The twin is the second largest of the season at Monticello, topped only by the $52,322.60, won on August 8 by Mrs. Annette Rubin of Poughkeepsie, which isn't far from Hopewell Junction. The only other larger twin double was hit last year by a Newburgh Tavern owner. He collected more than $37,000.

Regular at Track

Russo, a two times-a-week regular at Monticello, started coming to the races last year but this was his first successful twin double. He bet $10 in the TD but had only the one live ticket going into the eighth race.

The lucky holder of the ticket received a check for the amount early in the morning. He said it will go towards paying off the rest of the mortgage on the house and for an education for two children of he and his wife, a six-year-old boy and a three-year-old girl.

When asked if he knew A. Louis Rubin, the Internal Revenue district manager and husband of the woman who hit the record breaking twin double, Russo said he didn't but he probably will in the near future. He said he will make the government happy as quickly as possible, by paying the tax rate on his hefty earnings.

The one on top is a world famous legend.

The one below it is the same legend redesigned into an all new station wagon.

It has the deluxe interior appointments and comfortable ride of a fine passenger car. ... carries six big adults plus more luggage and equipment than you can imagine. It's powered by America's only automotive overhead cam engine, the high torque Tornado OHC ... offers optional extras such as automatic transmission, independent front suspension, power steering and power brakes. But the all new Wagoneer is really a "Jeep" vehicle at heart.

The "Jeep" Wagoneer goes up steep hills, over rough rugged terrain and through snow and mud that leave other cars helpless. And around slippery turns that cause fishtailing and skidding, it hugs the road with traditional "Jeep" traction.

The big reason is 4-wheel "Drivepower." All four wheels are power wheels instead of just two. Take a demonstration drive soon. You've never driven a car that can do the things this one can.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed on you.

Prisoner—No, your honor, my lawyer took my last dollar.

Accused—Yes, I took them by mistake.

Judge—How is that?

Accused—I thought they were fresh.

Mischievous Report: Cat in Mailbox, Stoning Trains

Malicious mischief reported to local police Tuesday ranged from the tossing of a cat in an uptown mailbox to the stoning of railroad trains.

A report at 8:33 p. m., said Officer John Kennedy had been told by a nine-year-old girl that she had just seen a boy toss a cat in the mailbox at North Front and Crown streets.

Police headquarters notified Central Post Office, and an employee was dispatched to investigate. He removed the cat, which took no time in scotching out of the area.

Another report shortly after 8 p. m., said boys had been tossing stones at the cabooses of trains passing over the Foxhall Avenue crossing. A spokesman for the railroad said the stone-tossing had happened several times in the past.

Police were notified at 7:15 p. m., that a stick thrown from a tree on Washington Avenue by a boy had damaged the car of Melvin Navy, of 182 Washington Avenue.

Probe Burglary Near Rosendale; Vehicles Taken

Kingston State Police BCI investigators today investigated a burglary reported at a garage on Lucas Avenue Extension, Rosendale.

Trooper Thomas J. Crowley reported the owners of the garage, Lou Cohen and Herbert Snyder of Brooklyn, discovered the garage had been entered at about 8:30 a. m. yesterday. They notified authorities.

The garage was entered after the intruders smashed a pane of glass in an overhead door. Missing from the building were two Go-karts and two engines. The value of the vehicles and engines was not immediately made known.

The burglary occurred between 2:30 p. m. Monday and yesterday morning.

Period of Fast Held Asking God's Help on Narcotics

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) - Several hundred members of a Roman Catholic parish participated in a 12-hour Black Fast Tuesday in supplication for God's help in wiping out narcotics addiction among teenagers in this New York City suburb.

Msgr. Edward M. Betowski had requested the Black Fast, which involves total abstinence from solid or liquid nourishment for a stated period.

Responding to the monsignor's plea—made at all masses Sunday—an overflow congregation of more than 400 persons attended the 6 a. m. mass Tuesday at the Church of Christ the King. Among them was Mayor John E. Flynn, a Catholic but not a member of the parish.

Teens Will Face Grand Jury on Burglary Charge

Two Saugerties teen-agers were in the Greene County jail today awaiting action of the grand jury on charges of burglary third degree.

Leeds state police reported Robert Gehring, 17, of 51 Ulster Avenue, and William A. Robinson, 16, of 50 West Bridge Street, Saugerties, were accused of entering the Post Bros. Used Car building on Route 9W south of Catskill.

The youths waived preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles Link, Town of Catskill. They were ordered held for grand jury action.

Dutchess Man Pays $145 in Auto Fines

A 24-year-old Poughkeepsie man, whose car was involved in a highway accident near Highland on August 7, pleaded guilty Tuesday in a Town of Lloyd Justice court to four motor vehicle law violations.

Justice of the Peace Linn Baker fined Roosevelt Smith, of 120 total of $145. In lieu of payment of the fines Smith was committed to the county jail, according to State Police Sergeant E. E. Winkky, Highland. The summonses were issued by Trooper G. W. Zappolo.

Police Say Man Left Accident, Passed Stop Sign

Charged with two motor vehicle violations following a two-car collision on Rock City Road, Woodstock at 2:10 a. m. today, Leroy A. Newman, 38, of 102 East 46th Street, New York City, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Rudolph Baumgarten, Town of Woodstock.

Kingston State Police said Newman was ordered held in $150 bail pending a hearing Friday. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and passing a stop sign.

According to troopers, Newman allegedly backed his car from a parking lot and struck a parked vehicle owned by Stephen Bodner, of Rock City Road, Woodstock. Troopers said Newman left the scene but was stopped by the road by Troopers John McMickle and Charles Bundschuh, who reportedly observed the accident.

Pleads Guilty For 3 Violations

Accused of three motor vehicle violations on complaint of Trooper Edward Pulver of Highland, Anderson Jones of that community pleaded guilty Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Patrick Mataraza, Town of Marlboro.

Sergeant E. E. Winkky of the state police, said Jones was cited by Trooper Pulver for driving without a license, operating an unregistered car and having no insurance.

Troopers reported Jones was fined a total of $175. He paid the fines, Sergeant Winkky said.

Mischief Report: Cat in Mailbox, Stoning Trains
Malicious mischief reported to local police Tuesday ranged from the tossing of a cat in an uptown mailbox to the stoning of railroad trains.

A report at 8:33 p. m., said Officer John Kennedy had been told by a nine-year-old girl that she had just seen a boy toss a cat in the mailbox at North Front and Crown streets.

Police headquarters notified Central Post Office, and an employee was dispatched to investigate. He removed the cat, which lost no time in scotching out of the area.

Another report shortly after 8 p. m., said boys had been tossing stones at the cabooses of trains passing over the Foxhall Avenue crossing. A spokesman for the railroad said the stone-tossing had happened several times in the past.

They were notified at 7:15 p. m., that a stick thrown from a tree on Washington Avenue by a boy had damaged the car of Melvin Navy, of 182 Washington Avenue.

Probe Burglary Near Rosendale; Vehicles Taken

Kingston State Police BCI investigators today investigated a burglary reported at a garage on Lucas Avenue Extension, Rosendale.

Trooper Thomas J. Crowley reported the owners of the garage, Lou Cohen and Herbert Snyder of Brooklyn, discovered the garage had been entered at about 8:30 a. m. yesterday. They notified authorities.

The garage was entered after the intruders smashed a pane of glass in an overhead door. Missing from the building were two Go-karts and two engines. The value of the vehicles and engines was not immediately made known.

The burglary occurred between 2:30 p. m. Monday and yesterday morning.

Period of Fast Held Asking God's Help on Narcotics

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Several hundred members of a Roman Catholic parish participated in a 12-hour Black Fast Tuesday in supplication for God's help in wiping out narcotics addiction among teen-agers in this New York City suburb.

Msgr. Edward M. Betowski had requested the Black Fast, which involves total abstinence from solid or liquid nourishment for a stated period.

Responding to the monsignor's plea—made at all masses Sunday—an overflow congregation of more than 400 persons attended the 6 a. m. mass Tuesday at the Church of Christ the King. Among them was Mayor John E. Flynn, a Catholic but not a member of the parish.

Teens Will Face Grand Jury on Burglary Charge

Two Saugerties teen-agers were in the Greene County jail today awaiting action of the grand jury on charges of burglary third degree.

Leeds state police reported Robert Gehring, 17, of 51 Ulster Avenue, and William A. Robinson, 16, of 50 West Bridge Street, Saugerties, were accused of entering the Post Bros. Used Car building on Route 9W south of Catskill.

The youths waived preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles Link, Town of Catskill. They were ordered held for grand jury action.
